School Operating Levy Proposed for Next Ballot

A decision to place a school operating levy on the November election ballot was reached Tuesday night by the Circleville Board of Education.

The proposal for a levy came after board members adopted the 1967 school operating budget. A lengthy discussion failed to produce a definite millage increase figure.

In considering an additional millage for the ballot, the board concurred it was absolutely necessary in order to meet current and projected needs of the system.

A look into 1967 indicated a deficit of $105,206.97, according to the budget adopted by the school board. Greater part of the deficit is figured through built-in increases in teachers' salaries and normal growth in enrollment.

APPROPRIATED for the 1966 budget was $1,016,650, but expenditures at a "bare minimum" have been set at $1,164,433.36.

The first six months of the 1966 expenditures are actual while the last half figures are estimated. Total expenses for the 1967 budget have been approximated at $1,226,746.

Superintendent Fritz Jacobs told the board that passage of an operating levy in November is absolutely necessary or the system will suffer "extreme cut-backs next year."

Anticipated expenditures in the 1967 budget follow (1966 actual estimated are in parentheses):

Administration $36,360 ($38,000); instruction $870,361 ($810,700); coordinate activities $6,450 ($6,370); library $3,300 ($3,300); transportation of pupils $26,100 ($32,400); playgrounds $850 ($850); other auxiliary agencies $149,400 ($141,175);

Operation of school plant $118,950 ($118,513.36); maintenance of school plant $10,400 ($8,550); capital outlay $4,550 ($4,550); petty cash $25 ($25).

The general fund is expected to have a balance at the end of the year, according to the administration, providing anticipated receipts come in as they are scheduled.

In addition to the projected balance, other anticipated receipts for 1967 are: real estate taxes, $470,000; personal property taxes, $160,000; School Foundation Program, $438,000; tuition, $1,000; state reimbursement under Title 3 $3,500; PL 874, reimbursement for children whose parents are federally employed $18,000; miscellaneous, $1,000.

Tax receipts are based on a three-mill income within the 10-mill limitation and 13.5 mills outside the 10-mill limitation.

Paul Sarchet New Principal At Circleville High School

Circleville's Board of Education Tuesday night named Paul Sarchet, 200 Walnut Creek Pike, to serve as principal of Circleville High School. He will assume duties Aug. 1.

Sarchet, who has served as assistant principal here for the past four years, will succeed Richard K. Snouffer. Snouffer tendered his resignation to the board yesterday after accepting a similar position at Delaware, O.

Snouffer and other school administrators will be working closely with Sarchet from now until school starts this fall.

In assuming the post, Sarchet will be a new principal in an entirely new high school. The building, provided by a bond issue in May of 1965, will open in September.

***
A NATIVE of Cambridge, O., Sarchet was graduated from Muskingum College in 1959. He received his master's degree in education from Ohio State University in 1963.

He was recommended for the principal's job last night by Superintendent Fritz Jacobs.

PAUL SARCHET

perintendent Fritz Jacobs. A replacement for Sarchet, as assistant principal, was not named by the board. The post is expected to be filled later this year.

Sarchet has had seven years of educational experience — all at Circleville. He was a junior high school teacher and coach for three years. He served as assistant principal and athletic director for four years under Snouffer.

The new principal currently holds the position of secretary of the Central Ohio Athletic Assn. Locally, he is a member of the Kiwanis Club and editor of the Kiwanis Bulletin.

Sarchet and his wife, Kay, have a daughter, Misty Renee, 4; and a son, Todd Michael, 1. They are members of St. Philip's Episcopal Church.

Miss Ohio Contest Is On Schedule

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP)—The nearly 11 inches of rain that flooded the Sandusky area Tuesday will not affect the Miss Ohio contest.

Officials at nearby Cedar point said the Lake Erie resort was not damaged by the storm and the parade scheduled for 5 o'clock tonight in Sandusky would be held.

The Erie County Sheriff's Department said roads in the area were clear and passable.

Preliminary judging for 32 local and regional winners will start Thursday night at Cedar Point. The field will be narrowed to 10 girls for the Saturday night finals and one will succeed Valerie Lavin of Canton as Miss Ohio.

An eight-station television network will carry the final judging.

Huge Solar Explosion Lasts for 15 Minutes

CATANIA, Sicily (AP)—The Catania Astrophysical Observatory reported today that it had recorded a huge solar explosion lasting 15 minutes two days ago. It was the biggest registered here in four years.

Scientists said hydrogenous material shot out from the sun at a velocity of 90 to 180 miles per second to a distance of more than 185,000 miles.

U.S. Heat Wave To Continue Several Days

St. Louis Area Ties 28 Deaths To Temperature

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Summer's longest heat wave gripped most of the eastern two-thirds of the nation today, causing widespread misery and inconvenience.

The Weather Bureau said the oppressive heat and humidity was expected to continue for several days, with possibly minor relief in some areas.

Temperatures have soared to 100-plus for five straight days in parts of the nation's midsection and in the South. The 90s and 80s were general.

Twenty-eight deaths were reported in the St. Louis area due to the heat.

In St. Louis, where the mercury climbed to 105 Tuesday and has been 100-plus for four days, 20 deaths were attributed to the hot weather, most of them elderly persons. The St. Louis County coroner reported two such deaths, while six heat-related fatalities were reported in nearby St. Clair County, Ill.

More than 100 persons at the All-Star baseball game in St. Louis were treated for heat-caused illnesses.

The Union Electric Co. in St. Louis said it planned to continue rationing electric power to 600,000 customers in an attempt to avert a blackout. The company cut off power Tuesday to 350,000 customers on a rotating basis up to two hours.

Other cities also have reported power shortages this week, including four in Nebraska. Many cities reported record consumption of power because of the use of cooling devices.

Violent storms broke out Tuesday and Tuesday night in widely scattered sections of the country.

Heavy thunderstorms knocked down trees and powerlines and cut electrical service in several areas.

Per Capita State, Local Tax: $266

CHICAGO (AP)—Americans paid an average of $266 in state and local taxes in fiscal 1965, up $16 a person from the preceding year, a survey showed today.

Per capita tax increased in every state and ranged from a low of $159 in Arkansas to a high of $379 in California. In fiscal 1964 South Carolina and New York occupied those respective rungs on the tax ladder.

The study was made by Commerce Clearing House, a private agency that reports to its clients on tax and business laws. It found state and local collections rose to a record high of $51.6 billion, a jump of $3.8 billion in a year.

California led the nation, as in 1964, with collections of more than $7 billion. New York received more than $6.7 billion, while Illinois, Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Texas topped the $2-billion mark by heavy margins.

Below California at the top of the per capita list were New York with $372 and Nevada with $322.

The median state and local per capita tax burden was $255, compared with $237 the preceding year.

States having a per capita state-local tax of under $200 were West Virginia, Georgia, North and South Carolina, Virginia, Tennessee, Kentucky, Mississippi, Alabama and Arkansas.

Teen-Age Brawl Nets Coney Island Arrest

NEW YORK (AP)—Police said today a bottle-throwing brawl erupted after an integrated dance for teen-agers at Coney Island Tuesday night.

Several persons including seven patrolmen, were injured by flying bottles and rocks. Police said 16 were arrested.

Police said racial tension was not the reason for the fight, which involved about 200 youths, most of them Negro.

Sandusky Cloudburst Damage Running High

Once Around Roundtown

THE CIRCLEVILLE area suffered another wind and rain storm Tuesday evening, but with less consequence than the weekend blasts.

A few limbs were downed by the high speed winds and lightning struck several trees. One incident resulted in the loss of an auto belonging to Fred Wagner, 447 Watt St. Lightning struck a tree that fell on the vehicle.

Rainfall during the evening thunderstorm amounted to 0.71 of an inch. Precipitation since the beginning of the week now measures 2.42 inches more than the entire accumulation for June.

The Scioto River here has shown its first marked increase in depth since early spring. The river reading at 8 a. m. today was 7.5 feet.

Foreign Aid Foes Seeking To Trim Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Opponents claimed today they have a fighting chance to trim the administration's $3.3-billion multi-year foreign aid authorization bill.

Rep. E. Ross Adair, R-Ind., said attempts would be made to cut dollar amounts in some programs and also shorten the length of installment payments on loans.

Supporters braced for a fight over the amendments. A final vote on the bill was expected late today.

"There isn't any part of the world we can ignore," Rep. Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, declared as debate opened Tuesday.

The bill would authorize for the first time across-the-board multiyear programs. All sections would be for two years except the Alliance for Progress program for Latin America and economic development loans, which would be for five years.

Driver of Truck Fatally Injured

An employee of the Pickaway County Engineer's Department was killed shortly after 9 a. m. today in a truck accident at Route 316 and the Circleville Commercial Point Road.

Ernest William Davis, 374 Logan St., was dead on arrival at Mercy Hospital, Columbus.

Ohio Firm To Furnish Gas To Japan

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP)—Five oil companies announced plans today to supply Tokyo, Japan, with natural gas, through a new procedure permitting the gas to be hauled in tanker ships.

Marathon Oil Co., which will supply 30 per cent of the gas, announced that it and four other companies had reached agreement to supply 50 billion cubic feet of gas per year to Tokyo Gas Co. Ltd. and Tokyo Electric Power Co. Ltd.

All the gas will come from Alaskan natural gas production of Marathon, Phillips Petroleum Co.

It will be converted into a liquid at a plant Phillips will build and operate on Alaska's Kenai Peninsula. Marathon will furnish transportation to Japan in special refrigerated tankers.

The relatively new procedure of converting natural gas to liquid by refrigeration to temperatures of minus 260 degrees Fahrenheit has been used by some foreign firms, but never by North American companies to supply overseas gas commitments, Marathon said.

No figures were announced for sale of the gas, expected to begin in 1969 and continue for 15 years. But Marathon said more than $100 million would be required to build the processing plant, tankers and other facilities to serve Tokyo with the gas.

U.S. Employees To Get Hike In Salaries

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress has sent President Johnson legislation granting pay raises to 1.8 million federal employees and more than 3 million members of the armed forces.

The separate measures gained final congressional approval Tuesday with but a handful of dissenting votes. Under their terms, civilian workers would receive 2.9 per cent pay increases, plus additional fringe benefits totaling four-tenths of 1 per cent, while uniformed servicemen would receive 3.2 per cent pay raises.

Covered by the $505.8-million civilian pay package are 1.2 million Civil Service employees and 600,000 postal workers. The military pay raise, estimated to cost $350 million its first year, was contained in a bill which also would authorize $17.4 billion for military spending.

Both pay packages would be retroactive to July 1.

2-Nation Theft Ring Is Smashed

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cuyahoga County Grand Jury has indicted three Clevelanders as members of an international shoplifting ring based in Cleveland.

Indicted Tuesday on charges of receiving stolen property were Ira Pittman, 46; Margaret Saunders, 41; and Lucille Cook, 41.

Authorities said the ring sent shoplifters to stores in Canada and the United States to steal expensive clothing for specified customers.

Reformatory School Eyed

Teacher's Ouster Is Under Probe

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A 40-year-old former teacher at the Mansfield State Reformatory appealed his May 9 dismissal today in a hearing which is expected to center on the quality of the institution's educational program.

Robert Spring, a science teacher in Mansfield schools for six years before he began work at the reformatory in 1964, was dismissed by Warden M.J. Koloski for alleged insubordination.

Koloski charged that Spring failed to report inmate misbehavior, ridiculed reformatory high school and college education programs and tried to persuade another teacher to end the courses it offers at the institution.

Spring appealed his dismissal before a three-man panel of the State Personnel Board of Review.

Before the hearing, Spring denied the first and last charges but criticized the reformatory education program. He said teachers in the program are not certified to teach their subjects and that he did not see why the school has been accredited.

Spring said some inmates received grades without taking exams and that one was given a grade although he was in solitary confinement when the exam was given.

Spring said he is the only teacher at the reformatory who has a principal's certificate and a masters degree in education.

2-Nation Theft Ring Is Smashed

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cuyahoga County Grand Jury has indicted three Clevelanders as members of an international shoplifting ring based in Cleveland.

Indicted Tuesday on charges of receiving stolen property were Ira Pittman, 46; Margaret Saunders, 41, and Lucille Cook, 41.

Authorities said the ring sent shoplifters to stores in Canada and the United States to steal expensive clothing for specified customers.

Teacher's Ouster Is Under Probe

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A 40-year-old former teacher at the Mansfield State Reformatory appealed his May 9 dismissal today in a hearing which is expected to center on the quality of the institution's educational program.

Robert Spring, a science teacher in Mansfield schools for six years before he began work at the reformatory in 1964, was dismissed by Warden M.J. Koloski for alleged insubordination.

Koloski charged that Spring failed to report inmate misbehavior, ridiculed reformatory high school and college education programs and tried to persuade another teacher to get Ashland College to end the courses it offers at the institution.

Spring appealed his dismissal before a three-man panel of the State Personnel Board of Review.

Before the hearing, Spring denied the first and last charges but criticized the reformatory education program. He said teachers in the program are not certified to teach their subjects and that he did not see why the school has been accredited.

Spring said some inmates received grades without taking exams and that one was given a grade although he was in solitary confinement when the exam was given.

Spring said he is the only teacher at the reformatory who has a principal's certificate and a masters degree in education.

Plain City Area Raked By Vicious Wind Storm

PLAIN CITY, Ohio (AP) — "You name it, we've had it," was the way one policeman appraised the weather situation in this small community Tuesday night.

And his observation would stand up for most of Ohio.

The Plain City policeman, Sgt. Bill Golden, added, "I've seen what tornadoes can do. This was a tornado."

Outside the police station, other policemen, highway patrolmen, electric company workers and railroad workers were trying to put the town back together again. They worked in the dark, since electrical power was cut off.

The Highway Patrol reported three mobile homes were flipped over and that one family was treated for minor injuries at a hospital. Several other townspeople were slightly injured as high winds damaged a grain elevator, business places and homes.

Church steeples were toppled, planes at an airport outside of town were wrecked and store fronts were blown out.

A dispatcher at Ohio Highway Patrol headquarters in Columbus said, "judging from the damage, Plain City had a tornado."

However, there were no funnel clouds sighted in the area. Plain City is about 20 miles northwest of Columbus, on the Union-Madison county line.

Shortly before midnight, fallen wires were cleared from railroad tracks west of town, allowing a Pennsylvania Railroad freight that was blocked for four hours to pass through.

Small tornadoes were sighted in Van Wert and Coldwater, in west-central Ohio, but damage wasn't as great as in Plain City.

The patrol said reports of roads blocked by flooding, fallen trees and wires were innumerable during the night as storms fanned out to the west and south from the rain-soaked Sandusky area.

Major portions of Van Wert and Lima were without power for several hours.

From McArthur in Vinton County came reports of flooding conditions, one resident north of Creola on Ohio 93 called it the worst in 66 years.

Elvey C. Fri, who has lived in the area most of his life called the flood the worst in his memory. Fri said he measured more than eight inches of rain in a heavy downpour which struck the area after 6 a.m.

The flood waters reached the edge of his home but did not get into the house.

Several other homes nearby were filled to a depth of about five feet, he said, and another home recorded 14 inches. Occupants of both houses had to be rescued by a motor boat after the waters of nearby Brushy Fork Creek rose out of its banks.

At Logan, the dam at Lake Logan was reported damaged by the heavy rains which dumped five to eight inches of water in sections of Hocking and Vinton counties. Extent of the damage to part of the dam's spillway cannot be determined until the lake level is lowered.

State Agriculture Director John Stackhouse has ordered three agents of the Food, Dairy and Drug Division into the area to inspect food processing and distribution centers.

The agents will try to prevent distribution of any contaminated food where flooding affected stores and markets and also survey salvage procedures where possible.

Erie County commissioners appealed to the governor to make a declaration based on reports of crop damage. The oat and wheat crops were reported heavily damaged.

There were reports of tornadoes at Van Wert and Coldwater.

High waters from record rainfall in the Sandusky area routed 200 residents—about 75 families—from their homes.

Rhodes was told that 75 more families would have to be evacuated.

One bridge was reported fallen in Erie County and another was inundated by high waters.

The U. S. Weather Bureau at Cleveland said 9.5 inches of rain fell on Sandusky during seven hours Tuesday, and that another 1.07 inches was added to that during thundershowers at mid-afternoon.

Sandusky City Mayor Stuard Gossler declared a state of emergency, and 50 Ohio National Guardsmen were sent in to help police and firemen.

Guardsmen used four amphibious personnel carriers — "Ducks" to help in the evacuation of residents.

With practically no wind aloft Tuesday, a string of thunderstorms hovered over Erie, Huron and Ottawa counties and deluged the area time and time again.

Sandusky's three hospitals experienced flooding on their lower levels but no patients were evacuated.

Utility companies were swamped with calls for flooded householders who asked that gas and electricity be shut off. They took skindivers to shut off gas meters in some parts of the city.

Red Cross rescue centers were set up at the National Guard Armory which housed several families Tuesday night, and at two other locations.

The hardest hit residential area was Perkins Township just south of Sandusky. Fifty families were evacuated from their flooded homes there.

Rhodes was accompanied on his inspection tour by State Highway Director P. E. Masheter, who said damage to state roads was heavy but could not be assessed before Friday—if the rains stopped.

Earlier in the evening, they toured the Port Clinton area, where mid-afternoon storms were accompanied by damaging winds that sent trees crashing to the ground and brought traffic to a standstill.

Port Clinton Mayor Gordon Cooper declared East Harbor State Park a disaster area and asked that the state supply chain saws to clear fallen timber.

Driver . . .

The truck kidded 159 feet and then went left of center, traveled 31 feet and struck a ditch, then apparently rolled over two times. It came to a halt on its wheels.

Davis was thrown from the vehicle which was extensively damaged.

There were no witnesses to the accident Linder said. The crash occurred on a straight stretch of road.

The injured man was first taken to Berger Hospital by ambulance and then was transferred to Mercy Hospital.

Henry McCrady, Pickaway County engineer, said it was the first accident in which a county road employee has died since he has been in office.

Davis is survived by his widow, Dolly Starr Davis, and two sons, William, Logan St., and James, of the home.

School Board Concentrates On Filling Teacher Posts

Efforts were made Tuesday night, during a regular monthly meeting of the Circleville Board of Education, to complete teaching staffs for the opening of school in September.

Contracts were offered 10 prospective teachers while resignations were accepted from another 10. Superintendent Fritz Jacobs noted that staffs are complete with the exception of six elementary vacancies and two on the junior high level.

Resignations accepted were those of Phillip Everett, high school math teacher who is advancing to the post of high school principal at Mechanicsburg; Mrs. Jean Kohler, elementary; Mrs. Mildred Dowden, junior high English, who will be teaching in the county system; Mrs. Mary F. Garrett, high school math; Charles Thomas, junior high industrial arts; Edwin Leatherwood, junior high science; Mrs. Sophia Smith, head teacher at High St., and Mrs. Marguerite Weiler, who has retired.

Mrs. Sandra Hodge was offered a contract for a high school math position. She holds a BS degree from the New York State University in Albany.

Mrs. Jerri Carpenter, who has a bachelor degree from West Liberty State College was offered a commercial teaching post in the high school. She has three years experience.

MRS. JUDITH HOOPS, formerly a teacher at Mt. Sterling, will teach junior high English. She has a degree from Ohio University. Mrs. Marie Gerhardt, a recent graduate of the University of Maryland, was offered an elementary post.

Mrs. Marilyn Ganley, who has a BS degree from Edinboro State College in Pennsylvania, also was offered an elementary post. Miss Judith Ann Harvath, a graduate of D'Yonville College, will teach in an elementary capacity.

Walter Gruesser, who holds a BS degree from Ohio University, was offered a contract for a history position. Miss Marjorie Green, also an Ohio University graduate, was offered a contract for an elementary position.

Superintendent Jacobs also recommended that Mrs. Carolyn Herel be employed under Title I for additional time through Aug. 12 for elementary library work.

In other action the board adopted several new textbooks for the coming school year. Equipment was also ordered, under Title III, for various departments of the school system.

Ralph Amey, a representative of Wright Lumber Co. of Williamsport, appeared before the board at the request of the administration to explain plans and give estimates on a press box and ticket booth for the new football field.

AMEY noted that materials, according to his plan, would cost about $650 for the press box and another $150 for the ticket booth. He told the board that both structures could probably be built for $1,200.

A bid submitted by Ankrom Lumber Co. for the job was $1,675.

The school board tabled action on the proposal until a bid was received from Circleville Lumber Co. Virgil Cress, business manager, is to award the contract to the lowest bidder on the project.

Cress also received board authorization to purchase $1,382.73 in janitorial supplies and equipment from Rose Chemical Co.

The business manager presented three recommendations for employment on a non-competitive basis. Hired were Mrs. Kenneth Garrison, as a bus driver; Mrs. Fred Davis, as a half-time cafeteria worker at Nicholas Drive; and Mrs. Mary Harrison, as a half-time worker at S. Court St. cafeteria.

Truck Driver Hurt in Crash

Kenneth Paynter, 32, South Charleston, was injured 9:02 p. m. Tuesday in an accident east of the Pickaway Madison County line on Route 56, yesterday.

Paynter said he lost control on a curve. He was treated at Madison County Hospital and released.

Moderate damage was inflicted on the truck, investigating officers reported.

Man Fined $50 For Assault

Ronnie Dennis, Fairview Ave., was fined $50 and costs in Circleville Municipal Court yesterday.

Dennis entered a plea of guilty to a charge of assault and battery filed by Faye Speakman.

Judge Sterling M. Lamb suspended $25 of the fine and also a 5 day jail sentence he had imposed, placing Dennis on probation for one year.

Burglary Reported

The Farmer's Market, a fruit and vegetable stand on E. Main St. just outside the city limits was burglarized Tuesday night.

Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Warren Straley was told three watermelons, two baskets of peaches and several packages of potato chips were missing.

LBj Details Peace Policy For Asians

4-Point Plan Seeks Closer Ties to China

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has spelled out a four-point policy for peace in Asia combining U. S. commitment against aggression there with a continuing effort for improved relations with Red China.

"The peace we seek in Asia is a peace of conciliation," Johnson said in a speech Tuesday night to the American Alumni Council.

"Communists in Asia still believe in force to achieve their goals" and the United States, as a Pacific power, "will not retreat from the obligations of freedom and security in Asia" and particularly in Viet Nam, he said.

But lasting peace depends on international trade, the free flow of people and ideas, the full participation of all nations in an international community and a common dedication to human progress and development, he said.

Declaring that "a peaceful mainland China is central to a peaceful Asia," he said Peking must be discouraged from aggression hostility and encouraged toward peaceful cooperation with others.

He cited U. S. efforts — so far unsuccessful — to open up travel between the United States and mainland China.

Such U. S. initiatives will continue, he said "because we believe that cooperation, not hostility, is really the way of the future" toward a Pacific area in which America and Asia are partners across the ocean.

Johnson's reference to the U. S. effort in Viet Nam was part of one of the four essentials he cited for peace in Asia. As he phrased it, this is "to prove to aggressive nations that the use of force to conquer others is a losing game."

His other three points were "the determination of the United States to meet our obligations in Asia as a Pacific power," "the building of political and economic strength among the nations of free Asia" and "reconciliation between nations that now call themselves enemies."

It was under this last heading that Johnson gave what was described as his most comprehensive outline yet of the developing U. S. policy toward China.

"Lasting peace can never come to Asia as long as the 700 million people of mainland China are isolated by their rulers from the outside world," he said.

"We have learned in our relations with other such states that the weakness of neighbors is a temptation and only firmness backed by power can deter power backed by ambition," he said. "But we have also learned that the greatest force for opening closed minds and closed societies is the free flow of ideas and people and goods."

Washington has been listing its barriers on travel by Americans to Red China in recent months. In December doctors were granted permission to go to the mainland. The list was broadened to include scholars and then, as of last Monday, to include most others outside of tourists.

Johnson noted Tuesday night that a businessman from Providence, R.I., G. William Miller, has just received a State Department okay to visit Communist China for commercial purposes.

Head Start Here Chosen In 'Sampling'

S. Court St. School's Operation Head Start program has been selected as a "sample school" by the Census Operations Department of the Economic Opportunity Office.

Mrs. William Huber, director of the Head Start program here, said the local project was selected in a random sampling of various schools across the country.

Additional forms for some children, selected at random, will have to be completed, Mrs. Huber said. They require information concerning what type children are being accepted for the program, needs of individual youngsters and the methods used for meeting the needs.

The S. Court St. School was the only one in this area chosen for the evaluation program being conducted by the Department of Commerce officials at Jeffersonville, Ind.

Driver Fined $200 Here For OMVI

Allison Harshbarger, 32, Hamilton, was fined $200 and costs in Circleville Municipal Court today on an accusation of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicants.

In addition, Judge Sterling M. Lamb levied a three-day jail sentence and ordered Harshbarger's driving rights suspended for one year.

Other motorists listed on the court docket were:

Jimmie Goddard, 22, Plano, Ill.; Goms Allen, 38, Foraker, Ky.; $10 and costs for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Alva Wells, Stoutsville; $15 and costs for failure to heed a stop sign.

Thomas Garner, 23, Lockbourne; $20 and costs for speeding 80 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Henry Payne, 31, Jonesboro, Ky.; $15 and costs for speeding 65 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

Kenneth Ralph, 33, Columbus; $11 and costs for speeding 71 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Charles Reed, 24, of 329 E. Corwin St.; $24 bond forfeiture for failure to heed a stop sign.

Three Youngsters Get Treatment

Three youngsters were on Berger Hospital's emergency list for Tuesday. They were treated for various injuries and released.

Jeffrey Dearth, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Dearth, Route 2, Williamsport, fell out of bed and injured his right shoulder.

Cheryl Swower, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Swower, fell off jungle bars while playing and received lacerations to her scalp.

Pamela Rogers, 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Rogers, Route 2, fell and lacerated her forehead.

PLAIN CITY, Ohio (AP) — "You name it, we've had it," was the way one policeman appraised the weather situation in this small community Tuesday night.

And his observation would stand up for most of Ohio.

The Plain City policeman, Sgt. Bill Golden, added, "I've seen what tornadoes can do. This was a tornado."

Outside the police station, other policemen, highway patrolmen, electric company workers and railroad workers were trying to put the town back together again. They worked in the dark, since electrical power was cut off.

The Highway Patrol reported three mobile homes were flipped over and that one family was treated for minor injuries at a hospital. Several other townspeople were slightly injured as high winds damaged a grain elevator, business places and homes.

Church steeples were toppled, planes at an airport outside of town were wrecked and store fronts were blown out.

A dispatcher at Ohio Highway Patrol headquarters in Columbus said, "Judging from the damage, Plain City had a tornado."

However, there were no funnel clouds sighted in the area.

Plain City is about 20 miles northwest of Columbus, on the Union-Madison county line.

Shortly before midnight, fallen wires were cleared from railroad tracks west of town, allowing a Pennsylvania Railroad freight that was blocked for four hours to pass through.

Small tornadoes were sighted in Van Wert and Coldwater, in west-central Ohio, but damage wasn't as great as in Plain City.

The patrol said reports of roads blocked by flooding, fallen trees and wires were innumerable during the night as storms fanned out to the west and south from the rain-soaked Sandusky area.

Major portions of Van Wert and Lima were without power for several hours.

From McArthur in Vinton County came reports of flooding conditions, one resident north of Creola on Ohio 93 called it the worst in 66 years.

Elvey C. Fri, who has lived in the area most of his life called the flood the worst in his memory. Fri said he measured more than eight inches of rain in a heavy downpour which struck the area after 6 a.m.

The flood waters reached the edge of his home but did not get into the house.

Several other homes nearby were filled to a depth of about five feet, he said, and another home recorded 14 inches. Occupants of both houses had to be rescued by a motor boat after the waters of nearby Brushy Fork Creek rose out of its banks.

At Logan, the dam at Lake Logan was reported damaged by the heavy rains which dumped five to eight inches of water in sections of Hocking and Vinton counties. Extent of the damage to part of the dam's spillway cannot be determined until the lake level is lowered.

flooding, partly because no water or sewer pipes were broken. State Agriculture Director John Stackhouse has ordered three agents of the Food, Dairy and Drug Division into the area to inspect food processing and distribution centers.

The agents will try to prevent distribution of any contaminated food where flooding affected stores and markets and also survey salvage procedures where possible.

Erie County commissioners appealed to the governor to make a declaration based on reports of crop damage. The oat and wheat crops were reported heavily damaged.

There were reports of tornadoes at Van Wert and Coldwater.

High waters from record rainfall in the Sandusky area routed 200 residents—about 75 families—from their homes.

Rhodes was told that 75 more families would have to be evacuated.

One bridge was reported fallen in Erie County and another was inundated by high waters.

The U. S. Weather Bureau at Cleveland said 9.5 inches of rain fell on Sandusky during seven hours Tuesday, and that another 1.07 inches was added to that during thundershowers at mid-afternoon.

Sandusky City Manager Stuart Gossler declared a state of emergency, and 50 Ohio National Guardsmen were sent in to help police and firemen.

Guardsmen used four amphibious personnel carriers — "Ducks" to help in the evacuation of residents.

With practically no wind aloft Tuesday, a string of thunderstorms hovered over Erie, Huron and Ottawa counties and deluged the area time and time again.

Sandusky's three hospitals experienced flooding on their lower levels but no patients were evacuated.

Utility companies were swamped with calls for flooded householders who asked that gas and electricity be shut off. They took skidvaders to shut off gas meters in some parts of the city.

Red Cross rescue centers were set up at the National Guard Armory which housed several families Tuesday night, and at two other locations.

The hardest hit residential area was Perkins Township just south of Sandusky. Fifty families were evacuated from their flooded homes there.

Rhodes was accompanied on his inspection tour by State Highway Director P. E. Mashert, who said damage to state roads was heavy but could not be assessed before Friday—if the rains stopped.

Earlier in the evening, they toured the Port Clinton area, where mid-afternoon storms were accompanied by damaging winds that sent trees crashing to the ground and brought traffic to a standstill.

Port Clinton Mayor Gordon Cooper declared East Harbor State Park a disaster area and asked that the state supply chain saws to clear fallen timber.

closed the driver applied his brakes 224 feet from the stop sign.

The truck kidded 159 feet and then went left of center, traveled 31 feet and struck a ditch, then apparently rolled over two times. It came to a halt on its wheels.

Davis was thrown from the vehicle which was extensively damaged.

There were no witnesses to the accident Linder said. The crash occurred on a straight stretch of road.

The injured man was first taken to Berger Hospital by ambulance and then was transferred to Mercy Hospital.

Henry McCrady, Pickaway County engineer, said it was the first accident in which a county road employee has died since he has been in office.

Davis is survived by his widow, Dolly Starr Davis, and two sons, William, Logan St., and James, of the home.

School Board Concentrates On Filling Teacher Posts

Efforts were made Tuesday night, during a regular monthly meeting of the Circleville Board of Education, to complete teaching staffs for the opening of school in September.

Contracts were offered to prospective teachers while resignations were accepted from another 10. Superintendent Fritz Jacobs noted that staffs are complete with the exception of six elementary vacancies and two on the junior high level.

Resignations accepted were those of Phillip Everett, high school math teacher who is advancing to the post of high school principal at Mechanicsburg; Mrs. Jean Kohler, elementary; Mrs. Mildred Dowden, junior high English, who will be teaching in the county system; Mrs. Mary F. Garrett, high school math; Charles Thomas, junior high industrial arts; Edwin Leatherwood, junior high science; Mrs. Sophia Smith, head teacher at High St., and Mrs. Marguerite Weiler, who has retired.

Mrs. Sandra Hodge was offered a contract for a high school math position. She holds a BS degree from the New York State University in Albany.

Mrs. Jerri Carpenter, who has a bachelor degree from West Liberty State College was offered a commercial teaching post in the high school. She has three years experience.

MRS. JUDITH HOOPS, formerly a teacher at Mt. Sterling, will teach junior high English. She has a degree from Ohio University. Mrs. Marie Gerhardt, a recent graduate of the University of Maryland, was offered an elementary post.

Mrs. Marilyn Ganley, who has a BS degree from Edinboro State College in Pennsylvania, also was offered an elementary post. Miss Judith Ann Harvath, a graduate of D'Youville College, will teach in an elementary capacity.

Walter Gruesser, who holds a BS degree from Ohio University, was offered a contract for a history position. Miss Marjorie Green, also an Ohio University graduate, was offered a contract for an elementary position.

Stock Mart Is Depressed

NEW YORK (AP) — Sharp losses by selected blue chips depressed the stock market which, in general, was down moderately in routine trading early this afternoon.

A 5-point drop by Du Pont was a big weight dragging down at the averages. It and IBM were delayed in opening due to selling pressure. IBM took an initial loss of 3 points but quickly reduced this to a fraction.

Worries about tight money, the course of hostilities in Viet Nam and the airline strike—effects of this were reported spreading widely — backgrounded the market's decline.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 6.68 at 879.51.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 1.8 at 319.4 with industrials off 2.9, rails off .8 and utilities off .6.

Truck Driver Hurt in Crash

Kenneth Paynter, 32, South Charleston, was injured 9:02 p. m. Tuesday in an accident east of the Pickaway Madison County line on Route 56, yesterday.

Paynter said he lost control on a curve. He was treated at Madison County Hospital and released.

Man Fined $50 For Assault

Ronnie Dennis, Fairview Ave., was fined $50 and costs in Circleville Municipal Court yesterday.

Dennis entered a plea of guilty to a charge of assault and battery filed by Faye Speakman.

Judge Sterling M. Lamb suspended $25 of the fine and also a 5 day jail sentence he had imposed, placing Dennis on probation for one year.

4-Point Plan Seeks Closer Ties to China

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has spelled out a four-point policy for peace in Asia combining U. S. commitment against aggression there with a continuing effort for improved relations with Red China.

"The peace we seek in Asia is a peace of conciliation," Johnson said in a speech Tuesday night to the American Alumni Council.

"Communists in Asia still believe in force to achieve their goals" and the United States, as a Pacific power, "will not retreat from the obligations of freedom and security in Asia" and particularly in Viet Nam, he said.

But lasting peace depends on international trade, the free flow of people and ideas, the full participation of all nations in an international community and a common dedication to human progress and development, he said.

Declaring that "a peaceful mainland China is central to a peaceful Asia," he said Peking must be discouraged from aggression hostility and encouraged toward peaceful cooperation with others.

He cited U. S. efforts — so far unsuccessful — to open up travel between the United States and mainland China.

Such U. S. initiatives will continue, he said "because we believe that cooperation, not hostility, is really the way of the future" toward a Pacific era in which America and Asia are partners across the ocean.

Johnson's reference to the U. S. effort in Viet Nam was part of one of the four essentials he cited for peace in Asia. As he phrased it, this is "to prove to aggressive nations that the use of force to conquer others is a losing game."

His other three points were "the determination of the United States to meet our obligations in Asia as a Pacific power," "the building of political and economic strength among the nations of free Asia" and "reconciliation between nations that now call themselves enemies."

It was under this last heading that Johnson gave what was described as his most comprehensive outline yet of the developing U. S. policy toward China.

"Lasting peace can never come to Asia as long as the 700 million people of mainland China are isolated by their rulers from the outside world," he said.

"We have learned in our relations with other such states that the weakness of neighbors is a temptation and only firmness backed by power can deter power backed by ambition," he said. "But we have also learned that the greatest force for opening closed minds and closed societies is the free flow of ideas and people and goods."

Washington has been listing its barriers on travel by Americans to Red China in recent months. In December doctors were granted permission to go to the mainland. The list was broadened to include scholars and then, as of last Monday, to include most others outside of tourists.

Johnson noted Tuesday night that a businessman from Providence, R.I., G. William Miller, has just received a State Department okay to visit Communist China for commercial purposes.

Burglary Reported

The Farmer's Market, a fruit and vegetable stand on E. Main St. just outside the city limits was burglarized Tuesday night.

Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Warren Straley was told three watermelons, two baskets of peaches and several packages of potato chips were missing.

Head Start Here Chosen In 'Sampling'

S. Court St. School's Operation Head Start program has been selected as a "sample school" by the Census Operations Department of the Economic Opportunity Office.

Mrs. William Huber, director of the Head Start program here, said the local project was selected in a random sampling of various schools across the country.

Additional forms for some children, selected at random, will have to be completed, Mrs. Huber said. They require information concerning what type children are being accepted for the program, needs of individual youngsters and the methods used for meeting the needs.

The S. Court St. School was the only one in this area chosen for the evaluation program being conducted by the Department of Commerce officials at Jeffersonville, Ind.

Driver Fined $200 Here For OMVI

Allison Harshbarger, 52, Hamilton, was fined $200 and costs in Circleville Municipal Court today on an accusation of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicants.

In addition, Judge Sterling M. Lamb levied a three-day jail sentence and ordered Harshbarger's driving rights suspended for one year.

Other motorists listed on the court docket were:

James Goddard, 22, Plano, Ill.; Goms Allen, 38, Foraker, Ky.; $10 and costs for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Alva Wells, Stoutsville; $15 and costs for failure to heed a stop sign.

Thomas Garner, 23, Lockbourne; $20 and costs for speeding 80 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Henry Payne, 31, Jonesboro, Ky.; $15 and costs for speeding 65 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

Kenneth Ralph, 33, Columbus; $11 and costs for speeding 71 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Three Youngsters Get Treatment

Three youngsters were on Berger Hospital's emergency list for Tuesday. They were treated for various injuries and released.

Jeffrey Dearth, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Dearth, Route 2, Williamsport, fell out of bed and injured his right shoulder.

Cheryl Swoyer, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Swoyer, fell off jungle bars while playing and received lacerations to her scalp.

Doing as They Do

Americans are doing as the President's family does, and not as Mr. Johnson suggests. A record number of them, even as Lynda Bird Johnson, are traveling abroad this year instead of seeing the U. S. first.

This is indicated by the total of passports issued or renewed. Figures have been totaled only through March, but the pattern is set. The three-month total is 364,701, or 14.3 per cent above the same period in 1965.

Nor are government officials limiting their foreign travel, as the White House has tried to get them to do. Official passports for January through March are up 17.6 per cent from 1965. Almost five times as many officials are going to Viet Nam this year as last.

Spending abroad by Americans is a problem for Washington authorities worried about the U. S. balance of payments. The 1965 travel deficit amounted to $1.8 billion. It may top $2 billion this year.

But the right to travel is one of the freedoms cherished by Americans. And this freedom distinguishes us sharply from totalitarian nations. A better solution to the travel deficit than restriction is to encourage more foreigners to visit America. The fact is that many foreigners cannot — or think they cannot — afford to travel here.

Modest efforts of the U. S. Travel Service to attract visitors have been successful and these should be expanded.

Lower Deficit

In these days of credit cards, charge accounts, and bank-by-mail, the average American is hard put to keep track of his own finances, much less the government's. The U. S. budget is so big, and the bookkeeping so complex, as to be almost incomprehensible to the man in the street.

Nevertheless, the government has just ended a fiscal year and, if its economists can be believed, the results are the rosier — but not the reddest — since 1960.

Not all the receipts are in. Neither are all the bills. But the prediction is that the budget deficit will probably drop to $3 billion or lower. In 1960 there was a surplus, but since then deficits have never been below $3.4 billion and have gone as high as $8.2 billion.

The relatively small deficit is the result of a booming economy, which generated greater revenues than had been expected. The war in Viet Nam caused expenditures to rise, but it also had an indirect effect on receipts, because it further stimulated an already expanding economy.

Fiscal 1966 is the first time that receipts or expenditures have topped the $100-billion mark. This reflects inflation as well as the growth of the nation in population and in gross national product.

Budget results appear to bear out the contention of certain economists that in future years the economy will generate more revenues than the national government can use. Perhaps then there will indeed be funds left over to apply on reduction of the staggering debt.

Leaving Domingo

Fourteen months after they arrived, U. S. and other OAS peace forces are beginning to pull out of the Dominican Republic. There are some reasons to believe that a foundation for achievement has been laid.

Joaquin Balaguer, the successful presidential candidate, has shown disposition to put rancor aside and work for the good of the country. A moratorium on strife is needed to get the nation's economy out of its present morass. The communists do not seem to be an immediate menace.

The Dominican Republic remains the political infant that emerged with the end of the Trujillo dictatorship that made the country a family fief for 31 years. It can be helped by aid available through the International Bank.

An essential ingredient, however, is self-help.

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP) — If you're in a position to lend money to the U. S. Treasury on a short-term basis, you can reap a record reward. But if you hold some long-term U. S. Treasury bonds and must sell them, you'll have to take the lowest price in more than 40 years.

Few individuals are in such a position since the Treasury's marketable bills and bonds are mostly sold in large bundles to financial institutions or to the government's other agencies. Individuals usually invest in an entirely different government security, U. S. Savings Bonds, which aren't marketable.

But this week the price of long-term U. S. Treasury bonds fell to the lowest level since the 1920s. The yield on short-term Treasury bills rose to a record high. And to the financial and business community this spelled tight money, and maybe still tighter.

The bond prices fell because interest rates in general are high and rising. Since the bonds have fixed-interest rates, the only way a buyer can get a return in line with what he can reap from a host of competing holders of the bonds considerable less than their par value. And if their par value was $1,000, most of them were being sold at $910 or less in the open market.

The Treasury's 13-week bills, auctioned off Monday, brought an average return to investors of 4.876 per cent, a record for this form of government borrowing. The Treasury sold $1.3 billion of them.

The average yield on its 26-week issue was 4.99 per cent, up smartly from last week but still under the record of 5.09 per cent set in January 1960.

The price of bonds and the yield of bills is important just now because of the turmoil in the stock market, the scramble for mortgage funds, the rush of corporations to borrow from the banks, and the generally rising cost of borrowing for both business and consumers.

The stock market watches the price of bonds because it shows what yields investors can get if they shop around. High yields in the bond markets call attention to the lower returns stock buyers can get in the form of dividends. This cools some desire to buy stocks and helps send prices down, or keep them down.

Rising interest rates and yields — whether it's for government bonds or bank time deposits — tend to drain money away from the mortgage market. This makes it harder to find some one to finance the purchase of a new home, and sends the charges on new mortgages higher.

When bond prices drop, banks holding government bonds in their reserves are less likely to sell them to raise cash to lend to businessmen wanting loans to meet current expenses or to expand.

And the record yields on U. S. Treasury bills are just another example of how tight money is, how interest rates are trending, and how much it is going to cost anyone to borrow.

Affected are consumers seeking ordinary loans for purchases or to meet current bills, or businessmen, or governments at all levels.

Floating new corporate bonds issues, or new issues of municipal or state securities to take care of the demands of a growing population for services, are all tied into the same package.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

SNOBBERY, points out the editor of Read Magazine, has long been an element in language. Ancient Greeks decided that the speech of foreign peoples sounded like baby talk—a kind of nonsensical "ba-ba-ba." So their word for foreigners and outsiders was "Barbaros." In ancient Rome the upper classes looked down on the vernacular used by the common mob—or Vulgus.

Thus, our English words "barbarian" and "vulgar" originated in snobbish ideas about the "common man's" language.

"Writers," notes Ann K. Pipe, "used to be a sickly lot." Proof of the pudding: "Bret had a bad harte, John a Bunyan, Robert suffered from Burns, Thomas lived in Paine, Graham looked Greene, Thomas Gray, and H. Rider Haggard. In fact, only Edward Everett and Thomas could be truly regarded as Hale and Hardy."

QUICKIES: A touring Scotsman, asked to account for the sudden popularity of fine French wines all over Scotland, explained facetiously, "There's no deposit on the bottles." A visitor in a Peruvian jungle village spotted a quiver of old, old Amazon arrows, but when he was told the price was twenty dollars, complained that he was being played for a sucker. "You don't understand," countered the native R. H. Macy. "These arrows were imported all the way from Disneyland." Absent-minded professor taking a shower: "Now let me see: which pocket did I put that soap in?"

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

What are the causes of detached retina of the eye? Is it related to a cataract?

The retina is a thin layer of tissue which lines the inner surface of the back of the eyeball. The retina receives light, in color and black and white, and then sends its sight message to the brain.

This retinal layer can become detached because of a sudden severe injury to the head. Infection, inflammation and tumors can dislodge the retina from its firm attachment.

There is no relationship between a cataract and a detachment of retina. Detachment of the retina is considered an eye emergency that needs immediate treatment.

Sudden fogging of vision, flashes of lights or loss of sight must be studied for its exact cause. The remarkable instruments used by ophthalmologists can now pinpoint the spot of retinal separation and direct the kind of treatment.

Some of the techniques by which the retina can be successfully re-attached are done with diathermy coagulation, the laser beam and by the subzero freezing of cryosurgery.

Is there any reason why a young woman with diabetes should not marry?

Young men or women with diabetes should not hesitate to marry. The single important factor, however, is that the degree and severity of the diabetes should be known to the marriage partner.

The diabetic whose condition is controlled by diet, insulin or drugs can take on the responsibilities of marriage, job, running of the home and having children.

There may be only one restriction. When a diabetic marries another diabetic, there is more chance that the children born of such a marriage have a great possibility of developing diabetes.

What is the span of reproduction in women?

There are cases on record of pregnancy successfully completed before the age of 10 and after the age of 62. These, of course, are bizarre and unusual occurrences.

The beginning of the menstrual cycle ushers in the time that a female is capable of conceiving. The cessation of the menses at the time of the menopause, or change of life, represents the end of her productive period.

It must be remembered that there is rarely a sudden natural change of life. Rather more frequently there is a slow change with irregularities of menstruation. During this time the possibility of pregnancy still continues.

The Embattled Colleges

By John Chamberlain

The offer of federal grants for new construction has caused a crisis of identity in the small colleges. Some are fighting it out idealistically and refuse to take the money; others, whether from motives of cynicism or desperation or simple refusal to see any threat in federal subsidy, are succumbing.

One particular battleground is the state of Indiana. Little Wabash College, in Crawfordsville, recently celebrated its annual commencement by announcing that it would continue to rely on tuition fees and private donors, the better to preserve its "sense of independence and self-reliance" which, throughout its 130 years of history, has exercised "an intangible but important influence on the lives of the students." Not so far away from proud Wabash, in the town of Greencastle, the small university of DePauw was in the middle of a commencement day hassle because its trustees had, a month or so ago, decided by majority vote to seek $1.3 million in federal money toward a $4 million new building. This was the first time in DePauw history that the university had ever sought Washington help.

The DePauw decision provoked a battle of newspaper publishers in which charges of inconsistency flew thick and fast. Two publishers and an editor happened to sit on the DePauw board that voted to seek a federal building grant. When the voting was over, Eugene Pullam, publisher of Indiana and Arizona newspapers, and William Maxwell, editor of the Chicago Tribune, submitted their resignations as trustees. But Bernard Kilgore, the president of the DePauw board who has only recently bowed out as the active guiding spirit of the capitalistic Wall Street Journal, stuck by the decision of the majority of trustees and asked Pulliam and Maxwell to reconsider their resignations.

Mr. Pulliam was a bit sarcastic at Mr. Kilgore's expense; he said he failed to understand "how you can sit in the Wall Street Journal office and write an editorial opposing federal aid, and then preside at a meeting of the board of trustees of DePauw university and take exactly the opposite view... if DePauw could survive four wars and five depressions without going to the government for help, why now, at the height of national prosperity, would we get down on our knees and beg Uncle Sam for a handout? Taking that first million dollars from the government would be like taking the first shot of heroin."

The issue that has been joined in Indiana is also troubling educators in places as far apart as California and Illinois. In California, Arthur Marmaduke, executive director of the local State Scholarship commission, who supports federal subsidies, has been visibly wondering about what the growth of federal student aid funds will do to the spirit of educational independence. "A decade ago," he says, "we were poor but we were directors of our destiny. We are about to become rich — but can we handle the riches without being handled?"

In Rockford, Illinois, John A. Howard, the president of Rockford College, says "no" to Mr. Marmaduke's question. Dr. Howard has consistently refused federal money despite the attacks of some Rockford alumni who want to go for it. His theory is that the student who sees his college begging money from the voters is thereby subtly conditioned to accept the idea that the government is supposed to support the citizens, and no vice versa. He believes that only the "inner-directed" university can produce the inner-directed graduate. And, as encouragement to Wabash and as tacit rebuke to DePauw, Dr. Howard points out that colleges can make out on their own. Rockford currently has three big holes in the ground waiting for a total of $5.5 million to rear new buildings on them. A local industrialist has agreed to finance the new library (cost, $1.5 million). Out of pure faith Dr. Howard has given the go-ahead signal for work to begin on the $2 million science building.

Here's something that publisher Pulliam and editor Maxwell could go to work on. DePauw's loss could be Rockford's gain.

Some Things Are Overrated

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — A civilization is known by what it cherishes.

But, now and then, don't you have the uneasy feeling that some of the customs, beliefs, gadgets, characters and status symbols of our time are a bit overrated?

Here are a few which we doubt are worth all the hullabaloo of praise sometimes inspired in their behalf:

Home cooking, particularly in households in which the chief culinary instruments are the ice pick and the can opener.

All outdoor cooking within the city limits.

Ice cubes with holes in them.

Sex after 50.

Skinny trousers, skinny lapels, skinny neckties, skinny brief cases and skinny people.

Wall-to-wall carpeting, Southern-fried chicken and Picasso prints.

Golf, water skiing, scuba diving and surfboard riding.

The ease of supermarket shopping. A husband who has to bruise his way through a supermarket mob to get a basket of groceries is lucky if he doesn't end up as a basket case himself.

Zip-code mail. It's really not much faster than the old pony express.

The two-car garage. It has no more extra room to store lawnmowers and kids' tricycles than one-car garages.

The helpfulness of airline stewards. If you ask one of these busy maidens to help you find your lost false teeth, she asks right back: "Yes, sir, coffee, tea or milk?"

Hairy-chested folk music as sung by long-haired male folk singers who have to play the guitar with their knuckles to keep from getting their fingers entangled in the strings.

Contact lenses, drip-dry shirts and James Bond novels.

Foreign movies that begin and end in bedrooms.

Get-out-of-Viet-Nam books written by Frenchmen who were thrown out.

Pop art, mod clothes, pizza waffles.

Anything that you can get back in exchange for 25 cents and a box top.

The dream that by switching to a different toothpaste or deodorant you'll enjoy a richer, fuller life.

Ranch mink earmuffs. Bikinis.

age stamps as a hedge against inflation.

Napoleon brandy, Beluga caviar and Japanese sewing machines.

The old movies of Humphrey Bogart and the new movies of Doris Day.

Batman jokes, elephant jokes, Italian jokes.

Psychoanalysis and Superman sweatshirts.

Any dance invented since the fox trot.

The advantages of buying now and paying later.

The financial rewards from writing smutty books. Most dirty-book authors drive second-hand cars and are behind in their rent.

The sex appeal of false eyelashes, suntans, and artificial fingernails.

The ability of the average woman to distinguish between administrative skill and physical charm in male political candidates.

The acting ability of Lassie. In "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" Elizabeth Taylor does a far better job of barking.

Vanilla milkshakes, Melba toast and Brigitte Bardot.

NEW YORK (AP) — If you're in a position to lend money to the U. S. Treasury on a short-term basis, you can reap a record reward. But if you hold some long-term U. S. Treasury bonds and must sell them, you'll have to take the lowest price in more than 40 years.

Few individuals are in such a position since the Treasury's marketable bills and bonds are mostly sold in large bundles to financial institutions or to the government's other agencies. Individuals usually invest in an entirely different government security, U. S. Savings Bonds, which aren't marketable.

But this week the price of long-term U. S. Treasury bonds fell to the lowest level since the 1920s. The yield on short-term Treasury bills rose to a record high. And to the financial and business community this spelled tight money, and maybe still tighter.

The bond prices fell because interest rates in general are high and rising. Since the bonds have fixed-interest rates, the only way a buyer can get a return in line with what he can reap from a host of competing holders of the bonds considerable less than their par value. And if their par value was $1,000, most of them were being sold at $910 or less in the open market.

The Treasury's 13-week bills, auctioned off Monday, brought an average return to investors of 4.876 per cent, a record for this form of government borrowing. The Treasury sold $1.3 billion of them.

The average yield on its 26-week issue was 4.99 per cent, up smartly from last week but still under the record of 5.09 per cent set in January 1960.

The price of bonds and the yield of bills is important just now because of the turmoil in the stock market, the scramble for mortgage funds, the rush of corporations to borrow from the banks, and the generally rising cost of borrowing for both business and consumers.

The stock market watches the price of bonds because it shows what yields investors can get if they shop around. High yields in the bond markets call attention to the lower returns stock buyers can get in the form of dividends. This cools some desire to buy stocks and helps send prices down, or keep them down.

Rising interest rates and yields — whether it's for government bonds or bank time deposits — tend to drain money away from the mortgage market. This makes it harder to find some one to finance the purchase of a new home, and sends the charges on new mortgages higher.

When bond prices drop, banks holding government bonds in their reserves are less likely to sell them to raise cash to lend to businessmen wanting loans to meet current expenses or to expand.

And the record yields on U. S. Treasury bills are just another example of how tight money is, how interest rates are trending, and how much it is going to cost anyone to borrow.

Affected are consumers seeking ordinary loans for purchases or to meet current bills, or businessmen, or governments at all levels.

Floating new corporate bonds issues, or new issues of municipal or state securities to take care of the demands of a growing population for services, are all tied into the same package.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

SNOBBERY, points out the editor of Read Magazine, has long been an element in language. Ancient Greeks decided that the speech of foreign peoples sounded like baby talk—a kind of nonsensical "ba-ba-ba." So their word for foreigners and outsiders was "Barbaros." In ancient Rome the upper classes looked down on the vernacular used by the common mob—or Vulgus.

Thus, our English words "barbarian" and "vulgar" originated in the "common man's" language.

"Writers," notes Ann K. Pipe, "used to be a sickly lot." Proof of the pudding: "Bret had a bad harte, John a Bunyan, Robert suffered from Burns, Thomas lived in Paine, Graham looked Greene, Thomas Gray, and H. Rider Haggard. In fact, only Edward Everett and Thomas could be truly regarded as Hale and Hardy."

QUICKIES: A touring Scotsman, asked to account for the sudden popularity of fine French wines all over Scotland, explained facetiously, "There's no deposit on the bottles." A visitor in a Peruvian jungle village spotted a quiver of old, old Amazon arrows, but when he was told the price was twenty dollars, complained that he was being played for a sucker. "You don't understand," countered the native R. H. Macy. "These arrows were imported all the way from Disneyland." Absent-minded professor taking a shower: "Now let me see: which pocket did I put that soap in?"

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

What are the causes of detached retina of the eye? Is it related to a cataract?

The retina is a thin layer of tissue which lines the inner surface of the back of the eyeball. The retina receives light, in color and black and white, and then sends its sight message to the brain.

This retinal layer can become detached because of a sudden severe injury to the head. Infection, inflammation and tumors can dislodge the retina from its firm attachment.

There is no relationship between a cataract and a detachment of retina. Detachment of the retina is considered an eye emergency that needs immediate treatment.

Sudden fogging of vision, flashes of lights or loss of sight must be studied for its exact cause. The remarkable instruments used by ophthalmologists can now pinpoint the spot of retinal separation and direct the kind of treatment.

Some of the techniques by which the retina can be successfully re-attached are done with diathermy coagulation, the laser beam and by the subzero freezing of cryosurgery.

What is the span of reproduction in women?

There are cases on record of pregnancy successfully completed before the age of 10 and after the age of 62. These, of course, are bizarre and unusual occurrences.

The beginning of the menstrual cycle ushers in the time that a female is capable of conceiving. The cessation of the menses at the time of the menopause, or change of life, represents the end of her productive period.

It must be remembered that there is rarely a sudden natural change of life. Rather more frequently there is a slow change with irregularities of menstruation. During this time the possibility of pregnancy still continues.

The Embattled Colleges

By John Chamberlain

The offer of federal grants for new construction has caused a crisis of identity in the small colleges. Some are fighting it out idealistically and refuse to take the money; others, whether from motives of cynicism or desperation or simple refusal to see any threat in federal subsidy, are succumbing.

One particular battleground is the state of Indiana. Little Wabash College, in Crawfordsville, recently celebrated its annual commencement by announcing that it would continue to rely on tuition fees and private donors, the better to preserve its "sense of independence and self reliance" which, throughout its 130 years of history, has exercised "an intangible but important influence on the lives of the students." Not so far away from proud Wabash, in the town of Greencastle, the small university of DePauw was in the middle of a commencement day hassle because its trustees had, a month or so ago, decided by majority vote to seek $1.3 million in federal money toward a $4 million new building. This was the first time in DePauw history that the university had ever sought Washington help.

The DePauw decision provoked a battle of newspaper publishers in which charges of inconsistency flew thick and fast. Two publishers and an editor happened to sit on the DePauw board that voted to seek a federal building grant. When the voting was over, Eugene Pullam, publisher of Indiana and Arizona newspapers, and William Maxwell, editor of the Chicago Tribune, submitted their resignations as trustees. But Bernard Kilgore, the president of the DePauw board who has only recently bowed out as the active guiding spirit of the capitalistic Wall Street Journal, stuck by the decision of the majority of trustees and asked Pulliam and Maxwell to reconsider their resignations.

Mr. Pulliam was a bit sarcastic at Mr. Kilgore's expense; he said he failed to understand "how you can sit in the Wall Street Journal office and write an editorial opposing federal aid, and then preside at a meeting of the board of trustees of DePauw university and take exactly the opposite view... if DePauw could survive four wars and five depressions without going to the government for help, why now, at the height of national prosperity, would we get down on our knees and beg Uncle Sam for a handout? Taking that first million dollars from the government will be like taking the first shot of heroin."

The issue that has been joined in Indiana is also troubling educators in places as far apart as California and Illinois. In California, Arthur Marmaduke, executive director of the local State Scholarship commission, who supports federal subsidies, has been visibly wondering about what the growth of federal student aid funds will do to the spirit of educational independence. "A decade ago," he says, "we were poor but we were directors of our destiny. We are about to become rich — but can we handle the riches without being handled?"

In Rockford, Illinois, John A. Howard, the president of Rockford College, says "no" to Dr. Marmaduke's question. Dr. Howard has consistently refused federal money despite the attacks of some Rockford alumni who want to go for it. His theory is that the student who sees his college begging money from the voters is thereby subtly conditioned to accept the idea that the government is supposed to support the citizens, and no vice versa. He believes that only the "inner-directed" university can produce the inner-directed graduate. And, as encouragement to Wabash and as tacit rebuke to DePauw, Dr. Howard points out that colleges can make out on their own. Rockford currently has three big holes in the ground waiting for a total of $5.5 million to rear new buildings on them. A local industrialist has agreed to finance the new library (cost, $1.5 million). Out of pure faith Dr. Howard has given the go-ahead signal for work to begin on the $2 million science building.

Here's something that publisher Pulliam and editor Maxwell could go to work on. DePauw's loss could be Rockford's gain.

Some Things Are Overrated

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — A civilization is known by what it cherishes.

But, now and then, don't you have the uneasy feeling that some of the customs, beliefs, gadgets, characters and status symbols of our time are a bit overrated?

Here are a few which we doubt are worth all the hullabaloo of praise sometimes inspired in their behalf:

Home cooking, particularly in households in which the chief culinary instruments are the ice pick and the can opener.

All outdoor cooking within the city limits.

Ice cubes with holes in them.

Sex after 50.

Skinny trousers, skinny lapels, skinny neckties, skinny brief cases and skinny people.

Wall-to-wall carpeting, Southern-friend chicken and Picasso prints.

Golf, water skiing, scuba diving and surfboard riding.

The ease of supermarket shopping. A husband who has to bruise his way through a supermarket mob to get a basket of groceries is lucky if he doesn't end up as a basket case himself.

Zip-code mail. It's really not much faster than the old pony express.

The two-car garage. It has no more extra room to store lawnmowers and kids' tricycles than one-car garages.

The helpfulness of airline stewardesses. If you ask one of these busy maidens to help you find your lost false teeth, she asks right back: "Yes, sir, coffee, tea or milk?"

Hairy-chested folk music as sung by long-haired male folk singers who have to play the guitar with their knuckles to keep from getting their fingers entangled in the strings.

Contact lenses, drip-dry shirts and James Bond novels.

Foreign movies that begin and end in bedrooms.

Get-out-of-Viet-Nam books written by Frenchmen who were thrown out.

Pop art, mod clothes, pizza waffles.

Anything that you can get back in exchange for 25 cents and a box top.

Napoleon brandy, Beluga caviar and Japanese sewing machines.

The old movies of Humphrey Bogart and the new movies of Doris Day.

Batman jokes, elephant jokes, Italian jokes.

Psychoanalysis and Superman sweatshirts.

Any dance invented since the fox trot.

The advantages of buying now and paying later.

The financial rewards from writing smutty books. Most dirty-book authors drive second-hand cars and are behind in their rent.

The sex appeal of false eyelashes, suntans, and artificial fingernails.

The ability of the average woman to distinguish between administrative skill and physical charm in male political candidates.

The acting ability of Lassie. In "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf," Elizabeth Taylor does a far better job of barking.

Vanilla milkshakes, Melba toast and Brigitte Bardot.

Miss Hibbler,
Mr. Stonerock
Repeat Vows

Miss Sandra Marie Hibbler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grenville Ratliff, Brice, O., became the bride of Mr. Carl E. Stonerock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Creed Stonerock, Route 3, on July 1, in the sanctuary of the First Methodist Church.

Rev. Paul I. Wachs officiated at the ceremony observed by the immediate families.

Miss Judy Stonerock, sister of the groom, was the bridesmaid and Mr. Creed Stonerock Jr., twin brother of the groom, served as the best man.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony at Marion Lake with 30 guests in attendance.

The bride is a graduate of Groveport School. The groom is a graduate of Circleville High School and is employed by Lincoln Plastics.

13 Members, Two Guests at WSCS Meet

The Five Points Methodist WSCS met in the church basement for a July meeting, with 13 members answering roll call. Two guests present were Mrs. Victoria McCafferty of Columbus and Mrs. Richard Maurer.

Mrs. Herman Porter, president, reviewed several activities prior to the meeting. Mrs. John O'Day opened the session with scripture reading followed by the Lord's Prayer.

Mrs. Arthur Winfough read the secretary's report and Mrs. Francis Furniss, treasurer, gave the financial report.

Money making projects were discussed and it was voted to make mincemeat to sell. The program opened with group singing.

Mrs. Arthur Winfough and Mrs. Edna McPherson were in charge of the lesson. They were assisted by members and a discussion followed. The program closed with a prayer by Mrs. McPherson and group singing.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. John O'Day, Miss Freda Clarridge and Mrs. William Davis. There will be no August meeting. Regular sessions will resume in September.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

These Guests No Longer Welcome

DEAR ABBY: We recently had houseguests from out of state who came here looking for a house to buy. They were not close friends. In fact they invited themselves. We had just bought our home, so our guests asked us how much we paid for it. Since they were in the market for one, we told them.

When a realtor came to our house to get our guests and show them what he had lined up for them, Mrs. X asked the realtor (a stranger to us) to appraise OUR newly purchased home. I was appalled, and the realtor was as embarrassed as I was, but Mrs. X pursued the questioning with, "Oh, come on, they told us what they paid for it. I just want to know what you think it's worth." How would you have handled this?

ON THE SPOT
DEAR ON: I would quickly have put the realtor at ease by announcing the price of the house. Then I would have hoped that the realtor would reciprocate and find the houseguests a nice house, as far away from mine as possible.

DEAR ABBY: I am engaged to a soldier who is in Korea. He will be there for another 10 months. I am only 19 and when I see all my friends out having a good time I am sorry I accepted his ring before he left. I realize now it was a mistake getting engaged so young, but at the time I wouldn't listen to anybody.

I write to my fiancé every day, and he writes to me, too, but that doesn't satisfy me. Would it be wrong for me to accept dates just for fun? I wouldn't get real serious with anyone else, because I think I really

Cong Fights
Allied Open Arms Effort

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Viet Cong leaders were reported Tuesday showing increasing concern about the effectiveness of the South Vietnamese government's "open-arms" program to lure defectors.

Intercepted Communist directives ordered commanders of guerrilla units to "take firm control of your troops" and diminish their exposure to the government's propaganda efforts.

One directive told the guerrillas to "cover your ears and shout" when government loud-speaker planes appear. Others told them to "beat on pots and pans to drown out the loud-speakers."

The guerrillas also have been ordered to "destroy immediately" leaflets encouraging them to desert.

According to government statistics, the "open-arms" program has been growing steadily. In 1965, a total of 11,124 Viet Cong guerrillas deserted their ranks. Through last Thursday, 10,171 returnees were processed through government "open-arms" points, about twice the number in the same period last year.

Getting 'Really Good Education'
Is What Actually Bothers Collegians

WASHINGTON (AP) — The lack of "a really good education" is what's bothering college students today — not Viet Nam, sex or the bomb.

That is the central thesis of a recent report on a national conference on student stress, and the key word is "relevance."

"One criterion of a good education," the report said, "is relevance — relevance to the world of modern politics and social ferment, relevance to the human condition in mass society, relevance to the doubts, fears and hopes of thoughtful youth."

The report grew out of a conference held last fall in Warren, Va., by representatives of 33 colleges and universities, usually two students and one faculty member from each. The report was written by Dr. Edward J. Shoben Jr., director of the Center for Study and Training in Higher Education at the University of Cincinnati.

"We need relationships with teachers who will help us face the big tough hang-ups," one student wrote about the conference.

"Am I a moral pacifist or a coward? Is abortion a human answer to the problems of unwed motherhood, and what has the pill got to do with my answer? Who am I, where am I, where am I headed, and do I really want to go there? What are the things that make society really worth fighting for?"

Not too many clearcut answers emerged from this soul-searching, but Shoben's report did come up with these suggestions:

—Graduate schools should give more attention to the preparation of teachers — with broader range of experience, student evaluation of their performance, and counseling experience "to help him attune himself more sensitively to student problems."

—More attention should be paid in college to "identify effective teachers and to reward them."

—"Students themselves should play a larger instructional role."

—"A student should have the privilege of inventing his own course."

—"Pass-fail judgments should be substituted for grades per year to encourage students to try subjects in which they are weak."

—"When grading time comes around, experience in the outer world" should be considered, "when one works in a bank, teaches in a freedom school, acts as an orderly in a mental hospital, or serves in a party's headquarters during a political campaign."

The report also proposed closer student-faculty relations, through periodic faculty-student retreats such as this conference, Saturday discussions, and perhaps including students on decision-making bodies within the university.

In addition, plans for a two-year action program to combat the causes of student stress were announced by the sponsoring organization, the National Student Association.

An apparently fundamental

problem in today's universities showed up even during the conference, held over three days last November at a luxurious estate called Airlie House.

"Professors and professionals tended to sit together at meals," the report said. "In the informal evening gatherings after scheduled sessions were done, there was little mixing of students with faculty. Fundamental barriers between the groups were invisibly but authoritatively operative; and in this sense, the conference mirrored in some degree a major source of student stress on virtually any campus."

One anecdote from a faculty member of a Border State university was illustrative.

He met with a group of Negro students, newly admitted to the institution. They were mostly juniors and seniors.

Their major and unanimous complaint: "None of them had ever had a conversation with a professor without a relatively formal and predetermined agenda."

Repeat Vows

Miss Sandra Marie Hibbler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grenvel Ratliff, Brice, O., became the bride of Mr. Carl E. Stonerock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Creed Stonerock, Route 3, on July 1, in the sanctuary of the First Methodist Church.

Rev. Paul I. Wachs officiated at the ceremony observed by the immediate families.

Miss Judy Stonerock, sister of the groom, was the bridesmaid and Mr. Creed Stonerock Jr., twin brother of the groom, served as the best man.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony at Marion Lake with 30 guests in attendance.

The bride is a graduate of Groveport Schol. The groom is a graduate of Circleville High School and is employed by Lincoln Plastics.

The new couple will make their home in the Circleville Mobile Homes location, N. Court St.

Two Guests at WSCS Meet

The Five Points Methodist WSCS met in the church basement for a July meeting, with 13 members answering roll call. Two guests present were Mrs. Victoria McCafferty of Columbus and Mrs. Richard Maurer.

Mrs. Herman Porter, president, reviewed several activities prior to the meeting. Mrs. John O'Day opened the session with scripture reading followed by the Lord's Prayer.

Mrs. Arthur Winfough read the secretary's report and Mrs. Francis Furniss, treasurer, gave the financial report.

Money making projects were discussed and it was voted to make mincemeat to sell. The program opened with group singing.

Mrs. Arthur Winfough and Mrs. Edna McPherson were in charge of the lesson. They were assisted by members and a discussion followed. The program closed with a prayer by Mrs. McPherson and group singing.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. John O'Day, Miss Freda Clarridge and Mrs. William Davis. There will be no August meeting. Regular sessions will resume in September.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

These Guests No Longer Welcome

DEAR ABBY: We recently had houseguests from out of state who came here looking for a house to buy. They were not close friends. In fact they invited themselves. We had just bought our home, so our guests asked us how much we paid for it. Since they were in the market for one, we told them.

When a realtor came to our house to get our guests and show them what he had lined up for them, Mrs. X asked the realtor (a stranger to us) to appraise OUR newly purchased home. I was appalled, and the realtor was as embarrassed as I was, but Mrs. X pursued the questioning with, "Oh, come on, they told us what they paid for it. I just want to know what you think it's worth." How would you have handled this?

ON THE SPOT
DEAR ON: I would quickly have put the realtor at ease by announcing the price of the house. Then I would have hoped that the realtor would reciprocate and find the househunters a nice house, as far away from mine as possible.

DEAR ABBY: I am engaged to a soldier who is in Korea. He will be there for another 10 months. I am only 19 and when I see all my friends out having a good time I am sorry I accepted his ring before he left. I realize now it was a mistake getting engaged so young, but at the time I wouldn't listen to anybody.

I write to my fiancé every day, and he writes to me, too, but that doesn't satisfy me. Would it be wrong for me to accept dates just for fun? I wouldn't get real serious with anyone else, because I think I really love my fiancé. But a girl gets awfully bored sitting home every night.

DEAR BORED: When you became officially engaged, you gave up the right to date others, for "fun" or other reasons. I agree, you were probably too hasty, but a promise is a promise. Make the best of it (alone) until your Johnny comes marching home.

DEAR ABBY: When that kid wrote in and asked you WHO should take a boy to the barber shop, his mother or his father, and you said, "HIS FATHER," I nearly fainted!

Abby, Saturday is the only day most fathers can get to the barber shop, MOTHERS can go any time.

If the boys are pre-school age, let mother take them during the week. If they're in school, let them go AFTER school, alone. But for crying out loud, don't clutter up the barber shops on Saturdays with fathers and sons.

The guerrillas also have been ordered to "destroy immediately" leaflets encouraging them to desert.

According to government statistics, the "open-arms" program has been growing steadily. In 1965, a total of 11,124 Viet Cong guerrillas deserted their ranks. Through last Thursday, 10,171 returnees were processed through government "open arms" points, about twice the number in the same period last year.

answer? Who am I, where am I, where am I headed, and do I really want to go there? What are the things that make society really worth fighting for?"

Not too many clearcut answers emerged from this soul-searching, but Shoben's report did come up with these suggestions:

—Graduate schools should give more attention to the preparation of teachers — with broader range of experience, student evaluation of their performance, and counseling experience "to help him attune himself more sensitively to student problems."

—More attention should be paid in college to "identify effective teachers and to reward them."

—"Students themselves should play a larger instructional role."

—"A student should have the privilege of inventing his own course."

—Pass-fail judgments should be substituted for grades perhaps for the entire freshman year to encourage students to try subjects in which they are weak.

"When grading time comes around, experience in the outer world" should be considered, "when one works in a bank, teaches in a freedom school, acts as an orderly in a mental hospital, or serves in a party's headquarters during a political campaign."

The report also proposed closer student-faculty relations, through periodic faculty-student retreats such as this conference, Saturday discussions, and perhaps including students on decision-making bodies within the university.

In addition, plans for a two-year action program to combat the causes of student stress were announced by the sponsoring organization, the National Student Association.

An apparently fundamental problem in today's universities showed up even during the conference, held over three days last November at a luxurious estate called Airlie House.

"Professors and professionals tended to sit together at meals," the report said. "In the informal Fundamental barriers between the groups were invisibly but authoritatively operative; and in this sense, the conference mirrored in some degree a major source of student stress on virtually any campus."

One anecdote from a faculty member of a Border State university was illustrative.

He met with a group of Negro students, newly admitted to the institution. They were mostly juniors and seniors.

Their major and unanimous complaint: "None of them had ever had a conversation with a professor without a relatively formal and predetermined agenda."

The World Today

By BARRY SCHWEID
For James Mariow
WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara demonstrated anew this week that the Eisenhower image remains a potent one on the Washington scene.

At a news conference to explain his apparent change of heart about the wisdom of bombing the Hanoi and Haiphong oil depots, McNamara said conditions had changed and added: "I think it was essentially this same line of reasoning that led Gen. Eisenhower to make the statement that he did."

By invoking the Eisenhower name, McNamara was doing what comes naturally. When you make a controversial decision look to the former president for a first line of defense. This is what President John F. Kennedy did after Dwight D. Eisenhower left the White House in January 1961 and this is what President Johnson has done since. It's usually a safe gambit. Having shouldered the burden of presidential decision-making and concomitant criticism for eight years, Eisenhower generally is a sympathetic source of support. The byproducts of his support are considerable.

There is the political insurance inherent in a former Republican president's endorsement of a Democratic administration's decision. Some of the controversy is squeezed out of the decision by giving it a bipartisan coloring. The magic of the Eisenhower name may turn the trick of rallying the undecided. And so Kennedy and Johnson employed this tactic again and again, and did not confine its use to highly controversial matters.

For instance—When Kennedy asked Congress in March 1961 for $500 million for economic and social development in Latin America he included a reminder that the program began under Eisenhower.

Later that month in a special message to Congress on foreign aid, always a whipping boy to some congressmen, he recalled Eisenhower's support of the program.

In March 1962, when Kennedy advocated the United States look beyond its borders toward closer economic and political association with Europe and Japan he noted Eisenhower's general endorsement.

When Johnson, in December 1963, appealed to Congress to reject a drastic reduction in foreign aid funds proposed in the House he said the cutback would undo Eisenhower's efforts in Latin America.

In May 1965, Johnson shored up his controversial decision to send Marines to the Dominican Republic with an Eisenhower statement of support.

Last January, when air strikes against North Viet Nam were resumed, Eisenhower was quick to support the move.

The same day Johnson ordered air attacks on the North Viet Nam oil depots Eisenhower issued a statement calling the decision "a military necessity" and saying "I support it."

Cooperation between Eisenhower and his successors has not always been velvet smooth. Last August, for example, Eisenhower challenged Johnson's oft-repeated contention that U.S. military action in Viet Nam flowed from a 1954 Eisenhower commitment to the Saigon government. But that disagreement was the rare exception.

Need Grows for Helicopter Specialists in Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some Army helicopter pilots and others with critical military specialties will find themselves sent back to Viet Nam faster than they expected, it was learned today.

A decision has been made to shorten the time between involuntary tours for certain badly needed specialists, the Army said.

The demand has rocketed for helicopter pilots and mechanics, in particular, while the supply has not been able to keep pace.

The Army is making strong efforts to produce thousands of new chopper crewmen and maintenance personnel. This is expected to cure the situation in time.

Generally, the Army said it makes "every effort to give everyone, exclusive of volunteers, two years in another assignment before being eligible for subsequent tours in Viet Nam."

The normal Viet Nam tour for all services is one year.

The first indications of the new action relating to men with critical skills came in closed-door testimony by Gen. Harold K. Johnson, Army chief of staff, before a Senate Armed Services subcommittee.

He was asked about the possibility of a need to request an extension of tours of duty in Viet Nam for specialists.

Johnson said there were two alternative courses.

"For the critical specialists like the helicopter pilot, we could extend the tour in Viet Nam and maintain the two-year tour out of Viet Nam with his family, or we can curtail the time that he had with his family after he has served a tour there," he said.

"At the present time, our plan is to go to the curtailment of his time on an assignment (with family) tour, and we expect that we are going to have to return some helicopter pilots to Viet Nam shortly after a year out of that country."

Asked about this, the Army said, "such a plan is in effect." It was indicated that no enlisted men or officers in the key specialist groups had yet been sent back to Viet Nam under these circumstances, but sources said it was only a matter of time before this would be done.

The other armed services said they are undertaking no shortening of intervals between involuntary tours of duty in Viet Nam.

Spain Seeks Diplomatic Support from Americans

MADRID (AP) —For a dozen years the United States has relied on air and naval bases in Spain to help support American forces committed to the defense of Western Europe. Today Spain's price for continuing these bases is going up, not in terms of economic aid or military hardware but in terms of diplomatic support.

Spain is beginning to make revolutionary changes in both its internal and its foreign policies.

At home it has moved toward greater press freedom and has granted workers a limited right to strike. The Franco government is working on a new law to establish freedom of religion in this overwhelmingly Catholic country.

In its foreign policy Spain aims at establishing new economic and defense links with its neighbors in Western Europe and with the Atlantic Alliance. To achieve these goals Spanish leaders want Washington's help. Failure to get it could jeopardize renewal of the base agreement, which comes up for negotiation again in 1968.

Ohio Woman Is Sentenced

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A former Columbus, Ohio, woman faces 10-20 years imprisonment for her part in a Buffalo tavern robbery in which a deaf mute was shot to death.

Police accused Miss Carla Leach 22, of shooting John Johnkins, 35, of Buffalo, after he failed to hear an order to lie down when the holdup occurred in January 1964.

The sentence came in court here Tuesday after Miss Leach had pleaded guilty to a charge of first-degree manslaughter. She had been indicted on a charge of first-degree murder.

Her accomplice in the holdup Robert L. Hayes, 38, also a former Columbus resident, was sentenced earlier to an 8½ to 17-year term for second degree assault and illegal possession of a firearm.

Though no Spanish policy maker puts it in such precise terms, the Spanish government is looking to the Johnson administration to:

1. Help overcome strong political opposition in some West European countries, dating back to the Spanish Civil War 30 years ago, to accepting Spain as a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

2. Support Spain's now active interest in joining the six-nation European Common Market, which Spanish leaders consider vital to their booming economy.

3. Adopt a sympathetic attitude toward Spain's claim for sovereignty over Gibraltar, a British bastion at the Atlantic entrance to the Mediterranean for 250 years.

The U. S.-Spanish base agreement, made in 1953, partially broke this country's isolation from the West. American economic aid in the years immediately following helped to begin the modernization of the Spanish economy. Initial political changes have been undertaken more recently but in the view of foreign diplomats here are likely to be accelerated in the future.

Spanish officials believe the time is at hand for other countries to make a place for Spain in the Western European and Atlantic communities. They argue that the civil war which put Generalissimo Francisco Franco in power has been over 27 years and their pro-Axis neutrality in World War II ended more than 20 years ago.

Armco Sues Steel Union

CATLETTSBURG, Ky. (AP) — Armco Steel Corp. has filed a $4 million damage suit against Local 1865 and the United Steelworkers of America, AFL-CIO, headquartered in Pittsburgh.

The suit, filed in Eastern Kentucky Federal Court, claims two work stoppages in April at Armco's Ashland plant were in violation of a no-strike clause of the contract negotiated last year.

One work stoppage lasted 10 days and the second 20 hours. Members of Local 1865, who set up picket lines, claimed the walkout was legal because the company violated various provisions of the contract.

Tourist Centers Feel Airline Strike Pinch

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's tourist centers have begun to feel the pinch of the strike against five major airlines, a survey indicated today. Hotels throughout the country reported cancellations as visitors found it difficult to get space on one of the nonstruck airlines. Some tourists lined up at airports for available seats while others took to trains and buses or cars. Some even hitchhiked.

In New York, for example, cancellations or "no shows" for reservations of the city's 90,000 hotel rooms have more than doubled since the airline strike began last Friday, a hotel association reported. Usually around 15 per cent of those who reserve rooms fail to show up or cancel out, said Daniel C. Hickey, president of the New York State Hotel and Motel Association. He said the rate in New York City has gone up to between 40 and 50 per cent. Hickey estimated the strike was costing the city's hotel industry $75,000 a day. The New York Convention and Visitors Bureau put the tourist costs to the city as a whole at $500,000 a day because of the strike. San Francisco hotel spokesmen said they had expected a large influx of visitors this week but for the most part they haven't arrived. Newspapers in Miami said thousands of vacationers were stranded there. Only two domestic airlines are still operating out of Miami and they report flights booked to capacity. "We suspect that a lot of persons are booking space on more than one airline as a hedge against the possibility of not having a seat," said a spokesman for nonstruck American Airlines in Dallas. "As a result, we have more no-shows than we normally do." Three of the airlines serving Denver said more flights were leaving with empty seats. The nonstruck airlines were so busy taking reservations by phone that some reported customers had long waits — sometimes hours — before getting through. The strike also was having its effect on business and the mails.

The Denver postmaster said the strike has caused delays of several hours in airmail deliveries. The Portland, Ore., post office said airmail was being delayed possibly a day to Chicago or New York, and that regular mail, which used to go by air on a space-available basis, now was going by train. Scott Foster, director of purchasing for an Oregon electronics firm (Tektronix, Inc.), said getting materials was difficult. He said the firm was using truck and rail from New York despite the delay.

Lady Medic Joins Mate In Army

CINCINNATI (AP)—Dr. Beverly P. Wood didn't want to be left behind. But she had to join the Army to be with her husband, Dr. Lawrence W. Wood. Both are physicians. The Cincinnati couple will start officers basic training together July 18 at Ft. Houston, Tex. and then be shipped to Korea for a 13-months tour. "Rather than stay behind, I thought I'd go along," explained Mrs. Wood. "My husband is all for it."

"I'm not sure what's in store for us, but I think it will be interesting," she added. "You never know about the Army." One thing, though, they'll be no outranking each other. Both will start with the rank of captain. Enlisting was the only way Mrs. Wood could be with her husband, since dependents aren't permitted to accompany the military to Seoul, Korea, she said. Dr. Wood—the husband—was deferred from the Army until he finished his residency, which he completed last month at a Boston hospital. He was assigned to Korea. Dr. Wood—the wife—joined up under a new program for women physicians, which permits volunteers to select their duty assignment. Naturally, she chose Korea. In the circus, clowns are called Joeys after Joe Grimaldi, the original circus clown of the early 19th Century. He invented the grotesque makeup and costume still used today.

Parental Pressure Tied To OSU Cheating Scandal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State University officials say pressure from parents for good grades may be partly responsible for a major cheating scandal at the school which involved 39 students.

School officials described the incident which came to light Tuesday as "the worst cheating scandal in the university's history."

"It's difficult to tell why any one individual cheats," Executive Dean John T. Bonner said. "But most of those involved in the cheating were in some grade difficulty, enough so they would not have been able to meet the requirements for graduation."

One of the main difficulties expressed by students, according to Bonner, "is the pressure from parents for good grades. It may be one reason behind some of the cheating," he added. "It's difficult to tell."

The cheating was discovered when a student reported to the mathematics department that copies of a freshman math course examination were in circulation among students. The report came just one day before the examination was scheduled, June 10.

According to Bonner, five students pooled $100 and bribed a custodian, who was later fired, to unlock a cabinet in the mathematics department.

The investigators then duplicated the test and then put a selling price on the copies, ranging up to $150 each.

Bonner said an estimated $300 to $400 changed hands during the relatively brief period before the test was to be given.

Ten of the students were given academic dismissals, 16 were suspended for six months, two for nine months, four put on probation and all were given E's for the course (failing) including two who received no other penalty.

An additional five students, not currently enrolled in the university, had their records tagged and will have to appear before university officials before they will be allowed to return to school.

Young Businessman OK'd For Travel in Red China

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—A young business executive with a strong curiosity about Communist China has passed the first obstacle in an attempt to visit that country.

G. William Miller, president of Textron, Inc., was notified that the U.S. State Department has validated his passport for travel to Communist China under new guidelines announced this week.

The next hurdle is to get approval from the Communist government, a step he will undertake immediately, "probably through Hong Kong."

New Desks Delayed for Ohio Solons

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Next year's reapportioned Ohio House of Representatives with its 9 members will be doing business at the old House desks instead of new ones, it appeared today.

Carl E. Bentz, state architect, said he had recommended to Acting House Speaker Robert F. Reckman that the purchase of new desks be delayed this year.

The House Rules Committee had approved installation of new counter top desks, with side filing cabinets, to replace the old 13 desks. The size of the House will be cut from 137 to 99 under the new apportionment plan.

Bentz said he based his recommendation to Reckman as a result of a prediction by Roll Call Corp., officials that rewiring of the House electric roll call system required with the new desks cannot be completed by the Dec. 1 deadline. The 107th Ohio General Assembly convenes Jan. 2.

The delay in buying new desks also will postpone the proposed installation of platforms for filming sessions for television, Bentz said.

Brigadier Walters Rotary Speaker

The Rotary Club's meeting program this week will feature address by Brigadier Walters of the Salvation Army.

Richard Snouffer will be in charge of the program.

The regular weekly luncheon session will be conducted at the St. Philip's Church Parish House.

U.S. Navy Patrol Ship Given South Viet Nam

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The U.S. Navy has transferred the USS Brattleboro, a patrol craft, to the Republic of Viet Nam in a ceremony at the naval base here.

The craft will be recommissioned in the South Vietnamese navy as the VNS Ngoc Hoi, the Navy said.

Young Greek King Wins Following Crisis

ATHENS (AP)—Last July 15 Greece's 25-year-old King Constantine rejected 77-year-old Premier George Papandreou's demand for control of the armed forces and forced him to resign.

Greece's worst crisis since the Communist civil war of 1947-49 followed, and for months the existence of the monarchy appeared threatened again.

Papandreou's appeals brought rioting crowds into the streets of Athens and other major cities. Communists and other leftist agitators took control of the crowds. A student was killed and hundreds were injured.

Papandreou, who controlled 170 of the 300 seats in Parliament, challenged the young king repeatedly with these words: "The people rule, the king reigns." He demanded immediate elections, asserting, "The people's will has been violated."

A year after the showdown the young king's crown is secure while Papandreou wanders in a lonely political wilderness, his Center Union party shrinking and his magic apparently gone.

The balance keeping Premier Stephanos Stephanopoulos and his coalition government in power is precarious. Fearful of a real test, the premier has presented no major legislation since winning a paper-thin majority in Parliament on his first confidence vote Sept. 24.

But Stephanopoulos has performed a balancing act that has staved off further political upsets, and his support appears to be growing. Talk of the early elections sought by Papandreou has died down. The king and the premier may be able to hold things together until the next scheduled elections, in 1968.

The Center Union, a loose association of leftist and rightist political parties which had banded together in 1964, began crumbling at the height of the crisis last summer.

Top members of the party deserted Papandreou. Finally his trusted lieutenant, Stephanopoulos, accepted the king's mandate and formed a government with other Center Union members who had left the party fold and the support of ERE, the rightist National Radical Union.

No longer as active as he was, Papandreou is beginning to feel his age. He has drastically curtailed his speaking tours about the country although he has not abandoned his fight to regain office. His son, Andreas, a former American citizen, is struggling to take over the leadership of the party before it disintegrates.

Stephanopoulos has been working hard to win over more Center Union deputies. So far 46 have abandoned Papandreou. More are reported planning to go over to Stephanopoulos before Parliament reconvenes in November.

Stephanopoulos now has the support of ERE's 99 deputies, the eight Progressives and the 46 former Center Unionists who constitute his Liberal party. That means 153 of the 300 seats in Parliament.

In opposition are 121 Center Unionists and 22 members of the Communist-front EDA. Three independents are noncommittal. A government deputy who recently died has not been replaced.

To some people, it is a retailer's own brand created with selling price first in importance and quality second.

To us at A&P, it's the opposite.

Quality comes first.

Value...the best for the least is the rule for our private brands.

If this wasn't true, how foolish we'd be to invest, as we have, literally millions of dollars

If all we wanted were products we could sell cheaply without quality control, anybody could produce them for us.

The idea of quality private brands isn't new at A&P.

Parental Pressure Tied To OSU Cheating Scandal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State University officials say pressure from parents for good grades may be partly responsible for a major cheating scandal at the school which involved 39 students.

School officials described the incident which came to light Tuesday as "the worst cheating scandal in the university's history."

"It's difficult to tell why any one individual cheats," Executive Dean John T. Bonner said. "But most of those involved in the cheating were in some grade difficulty, enough so they would not have been able to meet the requirements for graduation."

One of the main difficulties expressed by students, according to Bonner, "is the pressure from parents for good grades. It may be one reason behind some of the cheating," he added. "It's difficult to tell."

The cheating was discovered when a student reported to the mathematics department that copies of a freshman math course examination were in

Young Businessman OK'd For Travel in Red China

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—A young business executive with a strong curiosity about Communist China has passed the first obstacle in an attempt to visit that country.

G. William Miller, president of Textron, Inc., was notified that the U.S. State Department has validated his passport for travel to Communist China under new guidelines announced this week.

The next hurdle is to get approval from the Communist government, a step he will undertake immediately, "probably through Hong Kong."

New Desks Delayed for Ohio Solons

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Next year's reapportioned Ohio House of Representatives with its 9 members will be doing business at the old House desks instead of new ones, it appeared today.

Carl E. Bentz, state architect, said he had recommended to Acting House Speaker Robert F. Reckman that the purchase of new desks be delayed this year.

The House Rules Committee had approved installation of new counter top desks, with side filing cabinets, to replace the old 13 desks. The size of the House will be cut from 137 to 99 under the new apportionment plan.

Bentz said he based his recommendation to Reckman as a result of a prediction by Roll Call Corp., officials that rewiring of the House electric roll call system required with the new desks cannot be completed by the Dec. 1 deadline. The 107th Ohio General Assembly convenes Jan. 2.

The delay in buying new desks also will postpone the proposed installation of platforms for filming sessions for television, Bentz said.

U.S. Postwar Babies Get 'TV Slump'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The postwar babies have grown into a flabby generation of Americans, puffed by the easy life, and stooped by lengthy television vigils.

That's the opinion of athletic trainers George Sullivan of the University of Nebraska and William Newell of Purdue University, at the 43rd annual American Physical Therapy Association meeting here.

"They're too fat," Sullivan said Monday of Americans born in 1945, 1946 and 1947.

"Youngsters use power mowers to mow the lawn, ride bicycles almost as soon as they've learned to walk, and then, of course, graduate to cars and motor bikes," Newell said.

Both men said television was the single largest factor in bad posture, called "TV slump."

"They get round shoulders and curvature of the spine from sitting in front of television like this," Sullivan said, demonstrating a slumped position with most of the body weight on the back of the neck.

U.S. Navy Patrol Ship Given South Viet Nam

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The U.S. Navy has transferred the USS Brattleboro, a patrol craft, to the Republic of Viet Nam in a ceremony at the naval base here.

The craft will be recommissioned in the South Vietnamese navy as the VNS Ngoc Hoi, the Navy said.

"I'm having the time of my life," he commented of his career. "I'm just kicking myself because I didn't try it sooner."

Seldom has Hollywood performed such a perfect piece of type-casting. With his neat appearance and calm, reassuring manner, Anthony looks exactly like a — well, a Mr. Anthony. He hastily denies any pretensions of omniscience.

"There are many problems without any solutions," he commented.

"The very act of living often solves problems. At any rate, I've never been certain that all problems should be solved. Life might lose its flavor if they were."

A native New Yorker, Anthony started out to be a writer but moved into broadcasting. He discovered that most Americans were ignorant on the subject of marriage. He did some research and went on a Long Island station with a counseling program on April 10, 1930.

His show went nationwide in 1935 and remained on the networks until 1953.

Chicago Negro Youths Riot in Heat of Night

CHICAGO (AP) — Band of Negro youths ran through a near Southwest Side neighborhood Tuesday night, breaking windows, looting stores and hurling rocks and homemade bombs.

The disturbance was ignited during the late afternoon when police turned off a fire hydrant in the Negro neighborhood during hot, muggy weather.

It was the second major disturbance in Chicago this summer.

Tavern Death Said 'Natural'

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Andrew E. Cole, 67, who died during a tavern holdup Monday night was not killed by a blow on the head Summit County Coroner A. H. Kyriakides has ruled.

The coroner said Tuesday night death was caused by natural causes. Cole had a bad heart and was suffering from pneumonia, said Dr. Kyriakides.

William Davisson, 25, was charged with unarmed robbery in the $42 holdup of the tavern where Cole was killed. Cole had picked Davisson up as a hitchhiker and took him to the tavern.

Davisson hit a barmaid with a beer bottle and a bar stool and slugged Cole with a bar stool, sheriff's deputies said. He was held without bond as a parole violator.

Police Work 2 Days To Open Empty Safe

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — After two days' efforts, police succeeded recently in opening a safe that had sat on a street corner for six weeks before police hauled it in.

The safe was empty.

Church Women Make Own Stained Glass Windows

CINCINNATI (AP)—When a congregation wants stained glass windows for its church, but they cost too much, what's the answer?

Do it yourself, of course. That's just what happened at Hope Lutheran Church in suburban Groesbeck.

Members, dissatisfied with regular, clear glass windows, wondered if they could be converted to something more colorful, more effective than stained glass.

That posed lot of questions. Could it be done? How? Even if it could, would the result be pleasing or cheap and amateurish? Would they last?

One member did more than ask questions. Mrs. William Magly thought and thought about it and then set about finding a way to create such windows.

After considerable investigation and experimenting, she came up with a "paint" (much like fingernail polish in looks and texture) that seemed feasible and the work started.

There were 14 windows. Mrs. Magly and the pastor, the Rev. Luther Oberdorfer, worked out a design.

Mrs. Magly went home, rearranged her basement, and began making pastboard patterns. Aided by women volunteers, the stained glass shop, was in business.

Each pane was placed on the appropriate cardboard pattern. The "artists," following the patterns, glued lead strips into place on the glass, appointed the leaded-in areas according to a color chart, applied liquid soder sprayed varnish and there were their own, home-made stained glass windows.

So after about 300 hours work the project was completed and all it cost was about $150.

Superhighway Both Boon, Bane in Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Summer tourist traffic now speeds around Ohio small towns on four-lane superhighways instead of creeping down Main Street.

Interstate highway construction has left some small town businesses standing still. Abandoned service stations and declining motels in some areas stand as symbols of highway progress which moved traffic off older roads.

But the same bypasses which take traveler off Main Street bring booms to other towns and other areas. Some primarily rural cities now find business booming because a superhighway touched them. Areas along bypasses outside older cities sprout with new businesses.

Kirkersville, Hebron and Circleville have felt the effects of new highways. So has Lebanon, which now finds itself astride a main route linking two new interstate roads.

In almost every community abandoned by highway traffic on Main Street, the economy sags. But benefits from the bypass, in most cases, offset the disadvantage. Highway department studies provide illustrations and statistics.

St. Clairsville is an example. A freeway bypass was built about a mile south of the town in 1958. At first, most of the 4,000 residents experienced serious economic decreases.

The bust came, but the town survived. Now, Mayor W. K. Turner said, the relief from the pre-free-way traffic congestion and parking problems has allowed townspeople to do more business in the downtown area.

St. Clairsville streets are narrow. When U.S. Route 40 ran down Main Street 10,000 cars passed through the town every 24 hours. This traffic discouraged business.

In 1964, when the Highway Department studied the town's traffic flow, the rate of 24-hour traffic on Main Street fell to 2,640 vehicles.

Kirkersville has proof of the economic bust resulting from a highway bypass: Two restaurants in the community of 400 persons closed.

Circleville suffered economic setbacks also, but the pre-bypass businesses remained intact and none ceased operation. St. Clairsville lost a restaurant and a gas station along old U.S. 40.

U.S. 'Indian of Year' Slated To Be Honored

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert L. Bennett, commissioner of Indian affairs, will be honored as Indian of the Year at the annual Indian Exposition at Anadarko, Okla., the Bureau of Indian Affairs announced.

Bennett, a member of the Onondaga Tribe of Wisconsin, is the first Indian to head the bureau in 97 years.

The service station was sold because of lost trade and profits, and when the restaurant burned down, "it wasn't financially feasible to rebuild it," Charles W. McNell, executive secretary of the St. Clairsville Board of Trade said.

Some businesses showed considerable losses during the year following the freeway opening. Gas stations on what used to be U.S. 40 had lost nearly 22 per cent of their business in the second half of 1958.

Restaurant business dropped off about 41 per cent, and motel business fell 45 per cent.

To compensate for this lost trade, the town became a residential area. Since the opening of the freeway, St. Clairsville has grown by almost 1,000 persons. McNell attributes this growth to the town's nearness to the Ohio River.

"It's only about five minutes to the river on the interstate now," he said. "We have room to expand while the river front doesn't."

In Zanesville, the bypass was termed "a salvation" by the city manager. Old U. S. 40 carried traffic through the main section of town, causing traffic problems the city was unable to handle.

The towns with increased traffic resulting from the expressways look at the gain with mixed views.

Lebanon is on a prime interconnecting route between two interstate highways. In the last two years, town officials estimated Main Street traffic quadrupled.

This is good for business, but not for the streets, which are "deficient for the traffic and things are getting worse as time goes by," the city manager said.

Doctor Fined $15,000 In Income Tax Case

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Dr. Irving Helfert, 55, a Dayton Urologist accused on four counts of filing false income tax returns from 1959 through 1962, was fined $15,000 by U. S. District Judge Carl A. Weinman Tuesday.

The court also sentenced him to three months in prison but suspended the prison term on condition he pay the $15,000 fine within 60 days. Dr. Helfert had entered a guilty plea to the federal indictment last April 11.

Retired Army Officer Held For Espionage

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former military aide to the Joint Chiefs of Staff has been accused of conspiring to deliver defense information to the Soviet Union.

A federal grand jury indictment naming William Henry Whalen, a retired Army lieutenant colonel, said the information included data on atomic weapons, missiles and the retaliation plans of the Strategic Air Command.

It said Whalen received a total of $5,500 on six occasions between December 1959 and March 1961 from two former Soviet Embassy officials who have returned home.

There was no immediate explanation from the Justice Department nor the Pentagon on the gap of five years between the last alleged offense and the arrest.

Whalen, 51 and now unemployed, was taken into custody Tuesday by FBI agents in suburban Alexandria, Va., where he lives. He was arraigned on the espionage conspiracy charge, which carries a maximum penalty of death, and released several hours later after posting $15,000 bond.

The two Soviets, Col. Sergei Edemski and Mikhail S. Shumaev, were named as coconspirators in the indictment returned by a grand jury in Newport News, Va. The Justice Department said the two were not charged because they are no longer in the United States.

Edemski, former assistant Soviet military attaché, returned home in February 1960 and Shumaev, former first secretary, returned in September 1963, the department said.

Whalen, who had been awarded the Legion of Merit and Army Commendation Medal, served in Europe and Japan before being assigned in 1955 to the Army intelligence branch of the foreign liaison office in Washington.

He later was assigned to the staff of the office of the Joint Chiefs of Staff at the Pentagon where he served until Feb. 3, 1961, when he was retired on a physical disability after more than 20 years of active duty.

Whalen's wife, Bernadine, was contacted by Washington Star reporter Walter Gold shortly after her husband's arrest. As he read her an Associated Press story detailing the charges, Gold said she broke

Gemini 10 Crew Plans More Tests

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Gemini 10 astronauts run through a second day of practice today for next Monday's double rendezvous and space-walk launchings.

Navy Cmdr. John W. Young and Air Force Maj. Michael Collins planned to spend much of the day in their spacecraft atop a Titan 2 rocket, rehearsing major portions of the three-day mission.

The launch crews passed a major test Tuesday with a flawless countdown simulation with the two rockets involved.

An Atlas is to lift off at 4:41 p.m. EDT Monday to boost an Agena target satellite into orbit. A Titan 2 is to lift the astronauts skyward at 6:21 p.m. EDT.

into tears and said: "I don't know how this could happen. It isn't possible. I don't believe, I don't believe it, I'll never believe it. It just isn't true, it just isn't true — he never said anything about this to me."

"Oh what will I do now — who's going to pay all these bills?" She declined later to talk with other newsmen.

The Army said Whalen is a native of Watervliet, N. Y. He reportedly had worked the last three summers as a laborer for the Fairfax County Park Authority in Virginia at wages ranging from $1.40 to $1.79 an hour.

'Bama GOP Hopeful Shakes No-Help Hand

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — John Grenier, the Republican hopeful for U.S. senator from Alabama, was introducing himself to folks recently in a Montgomery restaurant.

He shook hands with one man and asked for his vote.

"I'm Roy Mayhall, chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee," was the cheerful reply.

Why Doesn't U.S. Go for All-Out Military Victory in Viet Nam?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Why doesn't the United States go for an all-out, total military victory in Viet Nam?

This answer emerges from the words of U.S. statesmen and military leaders:

1. The United States stops short of seeking all-out victory because of the inherent risk of becoming embroiled in all-out war, with Communist China, Russia, or both. President Johnson has laid down the guidelines here: "We seek no wider war," he has declared, and he says that the U.S. build-up in Viet Nam, and the bombings of North Viet Nam, are merely "measured response" to military pressures from the North.

2. The United States isn't using all its prodigious military might which could be brought to bear in Viet Nam because it does not seek a military victory in the ordinary sense.

As Secretary of State Dean Rusk has put it: "The United States seeks no territorial aggrandizement in South Viet Nam."

We want no permanent military bases, no trade advantages. We are not asking that the government of South Viet Nam ally itself with us or be in any way beholden to us." Nor, he has said, is it U.S. purpose to destroy the government of North Viet Nam, but only to make Hanoi desist from aggression.

3. The United States is seeking in a limited fashion to counter what many officials consider to be forerunner of other "wars of liberation," attempts by Communist guerrillas to overthrow governments.

As Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told Congress: "Our military efforts are directed primarily to actions within South Viet Nam, with the air effort against North Viet Nam fashioned as appropriate to assist in achieving our objectives in the South. Our air effort in the north is — as it should be — mainly an effort to interdict the lines of communication and military traffic. Anything beyond that, short of destruction of the North Vietnamese nation, is not likely to make a significant military difference so long as Hanoi believes that in South Viet Nam the war can be won."

The United States treads lightly in anticipating what Red China might do if military strikes were stepped up beyond the current pattern in North Viet Nam.

"Their spokesmen," Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said recently, "have uttered many words of violence hostility, and threats about making any move of armed aggression against us. The Chinese government gives port to North Viet Nam. But as very substantial material support to North Viet Nam. But as for engaging in any combat action, they appear, as has been said, ready to fight to the last North Vietnamese."

City Crowd Cheers Thug Beating GI

CHICAGO (AP) — A soldier stationed in Chicago was beaten and robbed aboard a subway train Tuesday while detectives said, 25 passengers cheered his assailant.

The victim is Richard Bloomfield, 25, an Army specialist fourth class assigned to a Nike base on the south side. His home is in Care Run, Route 1, Portsmouth, Ohio.

He was treated in a hospital where stitches were taken in a cut above his right eye.

Bloomfield said that just after he boarded the train at a near north side station a man confronted him and said, "Give me your money or I'll kill you."

When the soldier refused, the man tore off Bloomfield's eyeglasses and began beating him.

Two Chicago Transit Authority detectives, Charles Berglund and Joseph Ezerski, came into the car while Bloomfield was being assaulted.

"We had to draw our guns on the whole crowd," Berglund said. "We had no choice. They were all chanting—cheering on the assailant."

The detectives seized James Person, 27, who was charged with robbery and battery and held for appearance in the felony division of Circuit Court.

GOP Claims Federal Aid Is Failing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans maintained today that "massive infusions of federal aid" have failed to keep pace with problems confronting the nation's cities.

They called for a portion of federally collected revenue to be returned to the states and "that a major portion of such shared revenues . . . be immediately applied to metropolitan problems."

A position paper issued today by the Republican Coordinating Committee said a new approach should be adopted — "one in which the governments of our states play a major role and which fosters the involvements of local groups and governments."

"Despite the massive infusions of federal aid, it is apparent that urban problems have increased faster than the pace of solutions from Washington," the report said. "With all its liabilities, the application of assistance from the national government to meet metropolitan needs has often been inadequate."

It listed as drawbacks of federal aid: Loss of local control, erosion of representative government, decreased citizen participation, arbitrary requirements, exaggeration of costs, bypassing of the states and distortion of reality."

Horse Show Discussed at Shrine Meet

The Charity Western Horse Show was the main item of business when 25 nobles of the Pickaway Shrine Club met for their regular monthly meeting at the BPO Elks social room.

The annual horse show will be held July 23 at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds.

Invitations to the show have been extended to reigning queens and courts of the Pumpkin Show, the Pickaway County Fair, the Jackson Apple Festival and Miss South Central Ohio.

Members of the entertainment committee announced the club's fall activities will begin with a Ladies Night Sept. 12 at the L-K Restaurant on Route 23. Plans also are being completed for a Shrine-Knights of Columbus picnic which will be held in the near future.

Censorship of Mail Is Increased in Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A newly arrived refugee said Tuesday that Cuba has increased its censorship of mail.

Felix Monzon, 28, a former messenger for the Cuban Telegraph Co., said government agents opened mail to and from the United States. If outgoing mail contained criticism of the Cuban government, the sender would be investigated, Monzon said.

Retired Army Officer Held For Espionage

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former military aide to the Joint Chiefs of Staff has been accused of conspiring to deliver defense information to the Soviet Union.

A federal grand jury indictment naming William Henry Whalen, a retired Army lieutenant colonel, said the information included data on atomic weapons, missiles and the retaliation plans of the Strategic Air Command.

It said Whalen received a total of $5,500 on six occasions between December 1959 and March 1961 from two former Soviet Embassy officials who have returned home.

There was no immediate explanation from the Justice Department nor the Pentagon on the gap of five years between the last alleged offense and the arrest.

Whalen, 51 and now unemployed, was taken into custody Tuesday by FBI agents in suburban Alexandria, Va., where he lives. He was arraigned on the espionage conspiracy charge, which carries a maximum penalty of death, and released several hours later after posting $15,000 bond.

The two Soviets, Col. Sergei Edemski and Mikhail S. Shumayev, were named as co-conspirators in the indictment returned by a grand jury in Newport News, Va. The Justice Department said the two were not charged because they are no longer in the United States.

Edemski, former assistant Soviet military attaché, returned home in February 1960 and Shumayev, former first secretary, returned in September 1963, the department said.

Whalen, who had been awarded the Legion of Merit and Army Commendation Medal, served in Europe and Japan before being assigned in 1955 to the Army intelligence branch of the foreign liaison office in Washington.

He later was assigned to the staff of the office of the Joint Chiefs of Staff at the Pentagon where he served until Feb. 3, 1961, when he was retired on a physical disability after more than 20 years of active duty.

Whalen's wife, Bernadine, was contacted by Washington Star reporter Walter Gold shortly after her husband's arrest. As he read her an Associated Press story detailing the charges, Gold said she broke

Gemini 10 Crew Plans More Tests

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Gemini 10 astronauts run through a second day of practice today for next Monday's double rendezvous and space-walk launching.

Navy Cmdr. John W. Young and Air Force Maj. Michael Collins planned to spend much of the day in their spacecraft atop a Titan 2 rocket, rehearsing major portions of the three-day mission.

The launch crews passed a major test Tuesday with a flawless countdown simulation with the two rocket involved.

An Atlas is to lift off at 4:41 p.m. EDT Monday to boost an Agena target satellite into orbit. A Titan 2 is to lift the astronauts skyward at 6:21 p.m. EDT.

Young and Collins are to dock with the Agena and later rendezvous with an Agena left in space after the Gemini 8 flight last March. Collins plans two 55-minute sessions outside the spacecraft.

"Oh what will I do now — who's going to pay all these bills?"

She declined later to talk with other newsmen.

The Army said Whalen is a native of Watervliet, N. Y. He reportedly had worked the last three summers as a laborer for the Fairfax County Park Authority in Virginia at wages ranging from $1.40 to $1.79 an hour.

'Bama GOP Hopeful Shakes No-Help Hand

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — John Grenier, the Republican hopeful for U.S. senator from Alabama, was introducing himself to folks recently in a Montgomery restaurant.

He shook hands with one man and asked for his vote.

"I'm Roy Mayhall, chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee," was the cheerful reply.

Why Doesn't U.S. Go for All-Out Military Victory in Viet Nam?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Why doesn't the United States go for an all-out, total military victory in Viet Nam?

This answer emerges from the words of U.S. statesmen and military leaders:

1. The United States stops short of seeking all-out victory because of the inherent risk of becoming embroiled in all-out war, with Communist China, Russia, or both. President Johnson has laid down the guidelines here: "We seek no wider war," he has declared, and he says that the U.S. build-up in Viet Nam, and the bombings of North Viet Nam, are merely "measured response" to military pressures from the North.

2. The United States isn't using all its prodigious military might which could be brought to bear in Viet Nam because it does not seek a military victory in the ordinary sense.

As Secretary of State Dean Rusk has put it: "The United States seeks no territorial aggrandizement in South Viet Nam."

We want no permanent military bases, no trade advantages. We are not asking that the government of South Viet Nam ally itself with us or be in any way beholden to us." Nor, he has said, is it U.S. purpose to destroy the government of North Viet Nam, but only to make Hanoi desist from aggression.

3. The United States is seeking in a limited fashion to counter what many officials consider to be forerunner of other "wars of liberation," attempts by Communist guerrillas to overthrow governments.

As Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told Congress: "Our military efforts are directed primarily to actions within South Viet Nam, with the air effort against North Viet Nam fashioned as appropriate to assist in achieving our objectives in the South. Our air effort in the north is — as it should be — mainly an effort to interdict the lines of communication and military traffic. Anything beyond that, short of destruction of the North Vietnamese nation, is not likely to make a significant military difference so long as Hanoi believes that in South Viet Nam the war can be won."

The United States treads lightly in anticipating what Red China might do if military strikes were stepped up beyond the current pattern in North Viet Nam.

"Their spokesmen," Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said recently, "have uttered many words of violence hostility, and threats about making any move of armed aggression against us. The Chinese government gives port to North Viet Nam. But as very substantial material support to North Viet Nam. But as for engaging in any combat action, they appear, as has been said, ready to fight to the last North Vietnamese."

City Crowd Cheers Thug Beating GI

CHICAGO (AP) — A soldier stationed in Chicago was beaten and robbed aboard a subway train Tuesday while detectives said, 25 passengers cheered his assailant.

The victim is Richard Bloomfield, 25, an Army specialist fourth class assigned to a Nike base on the south side. His home is in Care Run, Route 1, Portsmouth, Ohio.

He was treated in a hospital where stitches were taken in a cut above his right eye.

Bloomfield said that just after he boarded the train at a near north side station a man confronted him and said, "Give me your money or I'll kill you."

When the soldier refused, the man tore off Bloomfield's eyeglasses and began beating him.

Two Chicago Transit Authority detectives, Charles Berglund and Joseph Ezerski, came into the car while Bloomfield was being assaulted.

"We had to draw our guns on the whole crowd," Berglund said. "We had no choice. They were all chanting—cheering on the assailant."

The detectives seized James Person, 27, who was charged with robbery and battery and held for appearance in the felony division of Circuit Court.

GOP Claims Federal Aid Is Failing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans maintained today that "massive infusions of federal aid" have failed to keep pace with problems confronting the nation's cities.

They called for a portion of federally collected revenue to be returned to the states and "that a major portion of such shared revenues . . . be immediately applied to metropolitan problems."

A position paper issued today by the Republican Coordinating Committee said a new approach should be adopted — "one in which the governments of our states play a major role and which fosters the involvements of local groups and governments."

"Despite the massive infusions of federal aid, it is apparent that urban problems have increased faster than the pace of solutions from Washington," the report said. "With all its liabilities, the application of assistance from the national government to meet metropolitan needs has often been inadequate."

It listed as drawbacks of federal aid: Loss of local control, erosion of representative government, decreased citizen participation, arbitrary requirements, exaggeration of costs, bypassing of the states and distortion of reality.

Horse Show Discussed at Shrine Meet

The Charity Western Horse Show was the main item of business when 25 nobles of the Pickaway Shrine Club met for their regular monthly meeting at the BPO Elks social room.

The annual horse show will be held July 23 at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds.

Invitations to the show have been extended to reigning queens and courts of the Pumpkin Show, the Pickaway County Fair, the Jackson Apple Festival and Miss South Central Ohio.

Members of the entertainment committee announced the club's fall activities will begin with a Ladies Night Sept. 12 at the L-K Restaurant on Route 23. Plans also are being completed for a Shrine-Knights of Columbus picnic which will be held in the near future.

Censorship of Mail Is Increased in Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A newly arrived refugee said Tuesday that Cuba has increased its censorship of mail.

Felix Monzon, 28, a former messenger for the Cuban Telegraph Co., said government agents opened mail to and from the United States. If outgoing mail contained criticism of the Cuban government, the sender would be investigated, Monzon said.

Publinx Medalist
Jinx Looms Anew

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Record-breaking Arne Dokka set out today to crack the medalist jinx of the National Public Links Golf Tournament.

The 22-year-old Studio City, Calif., player shot a 30-35-65 over the rain-soaked par 35-36-1 Brown Deer course to lead the 36-hole qualifying with a 137 total.

Dokka took medalist honors by four strokes over Ralph Colla of Youngstown, Ohio, who had a 0 for 141 total.

Only three times has the medalist gone on to win the championship. Dick Sikes, now on the pro circuit, did it in 1961, Wilfred Crossley in 1947 and the late Karl Kauffmann in 1928.

64 Amateur Golfers Vie

Storms Alter Toledo Test

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Sixty-four of the state's finest players plunged into first round match competition today seeking the Ohio Amateur Golf Tournament championship.

The second 18-hole qualifying test of the 60th annual tournament was washed down the drain Tuesday when severe thunderstorms pelted the city and left the 6,320-yard Toledo Country Club course unplayable.

Tournament officials waited as long as they could before calling a halt in mid-afternoon with slightly more than half the field of 165 in the clubhouse.

All the scores were washed out and the qualifier reverted to Monday's 18-hole round. That gave medalist honors to 32-year-old Fritz Schmidt of Columbus, who posted a three-under par 67.

Schmidt, a former Ohio State golf star, got an early start Tuesday and came in with a 72, the best card of any of the finishers. His round included two birds and four bogies.

His closest rivals, Pandel Savic of Columbus and Bob Littler Jr., of Athens, had played only a few holes when the rains came.

Double rounds today and Thursday were to reduce the field from 64 to four semifinalists. The 18-hole finale is set for Friday afternoon.

Today's first round was preceded by a 16-man playoff for one match berth. There were 62 scores of 78 or better in Monday's qualifier and defending champion Dick Flockenizer of Mansfield automatically qualified. That left one vacancy and the 16 golfers deadlocked at 79 were to battle it out.

Steve Helwagen is scheduled to tee off in the first round of match play in the Ohio Amateur at the Toledo Country Club today. He faces Ross Bartschy, former Upper Arlington High School golfer.

Helwagen qualified Monday by carding a 76. Bartschy shot a two over par 72 at Toledo. Tuesday's qualifying rounds were rained out and entries in the tourney were based on Monday's scores.

Bruce Helwagen missed the cut as he shot an 81. A sudden death playoff today among golfers who carded 79s will decide the other entry in the tourney.

3 Ex-Champs Vie in Ohio Women's Test

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Three former champions—two of them playing their home course—are among the eight players still in contention as the Ohio Women's Invitational Golf Tournament moves into the quarterfinals round today.

Former titlists playing on their home Brookside Country Club course are Mrs. Don Pappard, the 1958 winner, and Mrs. Pauline Whitacre, the 1962 champion.

Mrs. Peppard, the former Betty Kerby of Akron, defeated Mrs. James Pickeler of Dayton, 4 and 3, in the first round of match play Tuesday, and Mrs. Whitacre took an easy 7 and 6 victory over Mrs. Harry Schwab of Dayton.

The third former champion is Mrs. Wallace McArthur of Ash-tabula who ousted Sue Roberts of Columbus 3 and 2.

Today she faces blonde Lida (Fee-Fee) Matthews of Portsmouth who was medalist in Monday's qualifying round.

The 25-year-old Miss Matthews disposed of her first-round opponent, Sharon Klump of Toledo, 5 and 5.

K of C Triumphs In Mosquito Loop

Hill Implement and the K of C met head on Tuesday and the Knights came out on top, 7-3, to grab the lead of the Mosquito League. Prairie Lanes topped Block's 7-3, in other action.

The Knights kept their winning ways alive as they extended their streak to six. Hills dropped to 5-1, their first loss of the season. They are now tied with Ankrom Lumber who lost once to the Knights and have won five games.

Perri Hoskins and Phil Roll were spotlighted on the mound. Hoskins went the distance for the Implementmen and Roll for K of C.

Roll, showing unsteady control, walked 11 and fanned 13. He gave up only two hits.

HOSKINS issued three walks,

Big Innings Provide Vets 11-5 Decision

In Pony League action Tuesday VFW downed Du Pont, 11-5.

The game between Savings Bank and Kochheiser Hardware was rained out and has been rescheduled 10 a. m. Saturday on the main diamond at Ted Lewis Park.

A six-run fourth inning capped by a five-run sixth propelled the Vets to their win over the Du Pont nine.

Marion Long was the winning hurler, whiffing five, walking four and allowing 11 hits.

RICHARD RADCLIFF and Doyle Kiser teamed up for the losers. They set down four batters by strikeout, walked four and allowed eight hits.

Ward's, Bankers Win LL Tilts

First National Bank slipped past Rotary, 10-8, and Ward's Market swamped the Savings Bank, 33-6, in Tuesday's Little League Minors action.

The Bankers and Ward's advanced a notch in the loop ladder. But they still are behind front running IOOF that has won eight straight.

Rotary held the lead after four, 7-2. But in the fifth the Bankers moved for five.

Rotary forged ahead in the bottom of the fifth on a single tally. The Bankers collected three in the final frame.

MIVE GILLIAN and Robin Martin split mound duties for the winners, giving up 19 hits. They struck out 10 and issued 15 walks.

William Taylor, Gary Young and Don Graham worked on the mound for Rotary. They fanned four and walked six en route to scattering nine hits.

D. Speakman tagged a four bagger for the winners. Taylor and Rutter had homers for Rotary. Gillian tripled for the First Bankers.

2 Singles Give Nationals Win In All-Star Tilt

ST. LOUIS (AP)—"You read what an edge the National League has," said Detroit pitcher Denny McLain. "How their pitching is better, how their hitting is better. It's as if we're supposed to go out there and concede the game."

The American League didn't concede. But they didn't win either.

The National League did that, 2-1 in 10 innings.

Only in Tuesday's 37th All-Star Game it wasn't better pitching and it wasn't the powerful NL sluggers who took command. The job was accomplished with a pair of 10th inning singles by Tim McCarver of St. Louis and Maury Wills of Los Angeles, and extended National League domination of the midsummer classic through 10 games.

The American League has won only once during that period — there also was a tie — and the National now has reeled off four straight victories while pushing its over-all lead in the series to 19-17-1.

There's little doubt that the American League wanted this one. Manager Sam Mele even admitted that the AL Stars were getting embarrassed, and Baltimore third baseman Brooks Robinson would have handed back his awards and records for a victory.

Robinson, who played the full 10 innings and collected three hits, the Most Valuable Player award and two fielding records, said as much after the game.

"It's nice to get the MVP thing and nice to get the records, but it's nicer to win," Robinson said. "A hit in the right place the last couple of years and we win one. But they win... well... it takes a little glitter off everything."

It may have taken some of the glitter off, but there was no showing the American League around. As a matter of fact, the American League came away with all the awards, better pitching performances and the same number of hits. But they couldn't find a way to win.

"Score a few more runs," said Baltimore's Frank Robinson, who used to be on the National League side. "That's the only answer."

The answer, however, came from the National League after a 10-inning struggle in oppressive 102-degree heat that turned new Busch Memorial Stadium into a furnace. It was so hot that about 100 of the 49,936 spectators were treated for heat exhaustion and several deaths in the St. Louis area were attributed to the heat.

Sports Penalty Seen Against Commie Bloc

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Communist bloc has dropped the other shoe with Poland joining Russia's boycott of scheduled track and field meets in the United States this month.

Now amateur sports officials are waiting to see whether the International Amateur Athletic Federation drops either shoe on the Communists.

The IAAF, headquartered in London, presides over track and field throughout the world and could administer a severe wrist slapping to Poland and Russia for failing to keep their commitments, a tactic the IAAF usually frowns upon. So far, it has remained silent.

Polish athletes were ready to leave for their scheduled meet at Berkeley, Calif., this week-end when word of the cancellation came Tuesday. The Russians had called off their July 23-24 meet in Los Angeles on Monday. American involvement in the war in Viet Nam was given as the reason for both pull-outs.

In Chicago, Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, said he deplored political influence in sports.

"Representatives of all countries have joined in denunciation of political influence," Brundage said. "In this case, the first reaction will come from the IAAF to determine if there is a violation of rules or principles."

Col. Don Hull, executive director of the Amateur Athletic Union, who is in Europe, said he would fly to Moscow to try and bind the split.

Hull told Glenn Davis, director of the Los Angeles meet, in a telephone conversation that he "could not believe the Soviet sports people would jeopardize their standing with the IAAF by failing to complete their contract to compete in Los Angeles."

The Communist sports freeze extended to basketball with the announcement that Russia, Poland and Czechoslovakia were canceling games against a touring American all-star team.

The Americans opened their swing through Europe with a 104-81 victory over an Austrian team in Vienna Monday night but plans for the remainder of the trip were uncertain.

Meanwhile, the 19-member U.S. swimming team arrived in Moscow to compete in an international meet this weekend. The team was treated routinely in line with the Soviet announcement that it would take no action in events involving other countries besides the United States. The meet involves a number of countries besides the United States and Russia.

Plans went ahead in Berkeley and Los Angeles for replacement meets. The Berkeley meet was renamed the All-American Invitational and Los Angeles promoters invited Australian and New Zealand teams to compete in their meet.

Frederick Humphreys, manager of the Australian track and field squad, said he thought the Australians would accept the invitation.

At the same time, the Russians and Poles agreed to compete against each other at Minsk, Russia, July 23-24, the weekend the Soviets were to be in Los Angeles.

Polish officials seemed saddened over the cancellation and so were the American athletes. "If only the Russians had waited a day or two to announce their decision," said one Pole, "we would have been on our way."

The announcement came only hours before the Polish delegation was to leave for the United States.

Ralph Boston, veteran Olympian and holder of the world record in the broad jump, called the Polish cancellation unfortunate. "There always had been good relations between the athletes," Boston said.

The Americans lost to the Russian men 118-112 at Kiev last summer after winning six of the previous seven meets. At Warsaw last year, the Americans beat the Poles 118-93.

Law on Law
MIAMI (AP) — County grand jury investigators raided two bolita (numbers racket) houses recently, arrested three persons — and got a ticket for illegal parking.

"Infuriating," said one of the crime-fighters. "Here we were in this place arresting these people and this policeman is outside writing us a ticket."

"We argued, but he just kept on writing."

The 1967 National Open golf championship will be held June 15-18 at Baultusrol, Springfield, N. J., the scene of Ed Furgol's surprise victory in 1954.

Publinx Medalist Jinx Looms Anew

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Record-breaking Arne Dokka set out today to crack the medalist jinx of the National Public Links Golf Tournament.

The 22-year-old Studio City, Calif., player shot a 30-35-65 over the rain-soaked par 35-36-1 Brown Deer course to lead the 36-hole qualifying with a 137 total.

Dokka took medalist honors by four strokes over Ralph Colla of Youngstown, Ohio, who had a 0 for 141 total.

Only three times has the medalist gone on to win the championship. Dick Skis, now on the pro circuit, did it in 1961, Wilfred Crossley in 1947 and the late Karl Kauffmann in 1928.

Storms Alter Toledo Test

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Sixty-four of the state's finest players plunged into first round match competition today seeking the Ohio Amateur Golf Tournament championship.

The second 18-hole qualifying test of the 60th annual tournament was washed down the drain Tuesday when severe thunderstorms pelted the city and left the 6,320-yard Toledo Country Club course unplayable.

Tournament officials waited as long as they could before calling a halt in mid-afternoon with slightly more than half the field of 165 in the clubhouse.

All the scores were washed out and the qualifier reverted to Monday's 18-hole round. That gave medalist honors to 32-year-old Fritz Schmidt of Columbus, who posted a three-under par 67.

Schmidt, a former Ohio State golf star, got an early start Tuesday and came in with a 72, the best card of any of the finishers. His round included two birds and four bogies.

His closest rivals, Padel Savic of Columbus and Bob Littler Jr., of Athens, had played only a few holes when the rains came.

Double rounds today and Thursday were to reduce the field from 64 to four semi-finalists. The 18-hole finale is set for Friday afternoon.

Today's first round was preceded by a 16-man playoff for one match berth. There were 62 scores of 78 or better in Monday's qualifier and defending champion Dick Flockenizer of Mansfield automatically qualified. That left one vacancy and the 16 golfers deadlocked at 79 were to battle it out.

Steve Helwgen Qualifies for Ohio Amateur

Steve Helwgen is scheduled to tee off in the first round of match play in the Ohio Amateur at the Toledo Country Club today. He faces Ross Bartsch, former Upper Arlington High School golfer.

Helwgen qualified Monday by carding a 76. Bartsch shot a two over par 72 at Toledo. Tuesday's qualifying rounds were rained out and entries in the tourney were based on Monday's scores.

Bruce Helwgen missed the cut as he shot an 81. A sudden death playoff today among golfers who carded 79s will decide the other entry in the tourney.

3 Ex-Champs Vie in Ohio Women's Test

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Three former champions—two of them playing their home course—are among the eight players still in contention as the Ohio Women's Invitational Golf Tournament moves into the quarterfinals round today.

Former titlists playing on their home Brookside Country Club course are Mrs. Don Papard, the 1958 winner, and Mrs. Pauline Whitacre, the 1962 champion.

Mrs. Peppard, the former Betty Kerby of Akron, defeated Mrs. James Pickrel of Dayton, 4 and 3, in the first round of match play Tuesday, and Mrs. Whitacre took an easy 7 and 6 victory over Mrs. Harry Schwab of Dayton.

The third former champion is Mrs. Wallace McArthur of Ashabula who ousted Sue Roberts of Columbus 3 and 2.

Today she faces blonde Lida (Fee-Fee) Matthews of Portsmouth who was medalist in Monday's qualifying round.

The 25-year-old Miss Matthews disposed of her first-round opponent, Sharon Klump of Toledo, 5 and 5.

K of C Triumphs In Mosquito Loop

Hill Implement and the K of C met head on Tuesday and the Knights came out on top, 7-3, to grab the lead of the Mosquito League. Prairie Lanes topped Block's 7-3, in other action.

The Knights kept their winning ways alive as they extended their streak to six. Hills dropped to 5-1, their first loss of the season. They are now tied with Ankrom Lumber who lost once to the Knights and have won five games.

Perri Hoskins and Phil Roll were spotlighted on the mound. Hoskins went the distance for the Implementmen and Roll for K of C.

Roll, showing unsteady control, walked 11 and fanned 13. He gave up only two hits.

HOSKINS issued three walks, struck out 13 and scattered seven hits.

Robert Rose was the long power hitter as he cracked a pair of doubles. Roll clouted a double and a single. Mike Sparks, Brian Herron and Ty Foster rounded out the winners' hitting with singles.

Paul Davis and Hoskins managed the only hits for Hill, both singles.

The Knights led all the way from the opening frame when they tallied three after blanking the Hill nine. They added one in the second and third while losers remained scoreless. The Implementmen finally got moving in the fourth when they tallied one. In the fifth both sides moved for two. Hill went scoreless in the last frame to give the Knights the win.

Big Innings Provide Vets 11-5 Decision

In Pony League action Tuesday VFW downed Du Pont, 11-5. The game between Savings Bank and Kochheiser Hardware was rained out and has been rescheduled 10 a. m. Saturday on the main diamond at Ted Lewis Park.

A six-run fourth inning capped by a five-run sixth propelled the Vets to their win over the Du Pont nine.

Marion Long was the winning hurler, whiffing five, walking four and allowing 11 hits.

RICHARD RADCLIFF and Doyle Kiser teamed up for the losers. They set down four batters by strikeouts, walked four and allowed eight hits.

Ward's, Bankers Win LL Tilts

First National Bank slipped past Rotary, 10-8, and Ward's Market swamped the Savings Bank, 33-6, in Tuesday's Little League Minors action.

The Bankers and Ward's advanced a notch in the loop ladder. But they still are behind front running 100F that has won eight straight.

Rotary held the lead after four, 7-2. But in the fifth the Bankers moved for five.

Rotary forged ahead in the bottom of the fifth on a single tally. The Bankers collected three in the final frame.

MIVE GILLIAN and Robin Martin split mound duties for the winners, giving up 19 hits. They struck out 10 and issued 15 walks.

William Taylor, Gary Young and Don Graham worked on the mound for Rotary. They fanned four and walked six en route to scattering nine hits.

D. Speakman tagged a foul bagger for the winners, Taylor and sutter had homers for Rotary. Gillian tripled for the First Bankers.

2 Singles Give Nationals Win In All-Star Tilt

ST. LOUIS (AP)—"You read what an edge the National League has," said Detroit pitcher Denny McLain. "How their pitching is better, how their hitting is better. It's as if we're supposed to go out there and concede the game."

The American League didn't concede. But they didn't win either.

The National League did that, 2-1 in 10 innings.

Only in Tuesday's 37th All-Star Game it wasn't better pitching and it wasn't the powerful NL sluggers who took command. The job was accomplished with a pair of 10th inning singles by Tim McCarver of St. Louis and Maury Wills of Los Angeles, and extended National League domination of the midsummer classic through 10 games.

The American League has won only once during that period — there also was a tie — and the National now has reeled off four straight victories while pushing its over-all lead in the series to 19-17-1.

There's little doubt that the American League wanted this one. Manager Sam Mele even admitted that the AL Stars were getting embarrassed, and Baltimore third baseman Brooks Robinson would have handed back his awards and records for a victory.

Robinson, who played the full 10 innings and collected three hits, the Most Valuable Player award and two fielding records, said as much after the game.

"It's nice to get the MVP thing and nice to get the records, but it's nicer to win," Robinson said. "A hit in the right place the last couple of years and we win one. But they win... well, it takes a little glitter off everything."

It may have taken some of the glitter off, but there was no shoving the American League around. As a matter of fact, the American League came away with all the awards, better pitching performances and the same number of hits. But they couldn't find a way to win.

"Score a few more runs," said Baltimore's Frank Robinson, who used to be on the National League side. "That's the only answer."

The answer, however, came from the National League after a 10-inning struggle in oppressive 102-degree heat that turned new Busch Memorial Stadium into a furnace. It was so hot that about 100 of the 49,936 spectators were treated for heat exhaustion and several deaths in the St. Louis area were attributed to the heat.

Sports Penalty Seen Against Commie Bloc

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Communist bloc has dropped the other shoe with Poland joining Russia's boycott of scheduled track and field meets in the United States this month.

Now amateur sports officials are waiting to see whether the International Amateur Athletic Federation drops either shoe on the Communists.

The IAAF, headquartered in London, presides over track and field throughout the world and could administer a severe wrist slapping to Poland and Russia for failing to keep their commitments, a tactic the IAAF usually frowns upon. So far, it has remained silent.

Polish athletes were ready to leave for their scheduled meet at Berkeley, Calif., this weekend when word of the cancellation came Tuesday. The Russians had called off their July 23-24 meet in Los Angeles on Monday. American involvement in the war in Viet Nam was given as the reason for both pull-outs.

In Chicago, Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, said he deplored political influence in sports.

"Representatives of all countries have joined in denunciation of political influence," Brundage said. "In this case, the first reaction will come from the IAAF to determine if there is a violation of rules or principles."

Col. Don Hull, executive director of the Amateur Athletic Union, who is in Europe, said he would fly to Moscow to try and bind the split.

Hull told Glenn Davis, director of the Los Angeles meet, in a telephone conversation that he "could not believe the Soviet sports people would jeopardize their standing with the IAAF by failing to complete their contract to compete in Los Angeles."

The Communist sports freeze extended to basketball with the announcement that Russia, Poland and Czechoslovakia were canceling games against a touring American all-star team.

The Americans opened their swing through Europe with a 104-81 victory over an Austrian team in Vienna Monday night but plans for the remainder of the trip were uncertain.

Meanwhile, the 19-member U.S. swimming team arrived in Moscow to compete in an international meet this weekend. The team was treated routinely in line with the Soviet announcement that it would take no action in events involving other countries besides the United States. The meet involves a number of countries besides the United States and Russia.

Plans went ahead in Berkeley and Los Angeles for replacement meets. The Berkeley meet was renamed the All-American Invitational and Los Angeles promoters invited Australian and New Zealand teams to compete in their meet.

Frederick Humphreys, manager of the Australian track and field squad, said he thought the Australians would accept the invitation.

At the same time, the Russians and Poles agreed to compete against each other at Minsk, Russia, July 23-24, the weekend the Soviets were to be in Los Angeles.

Polish officials seemed saddened over the cancellation and so were the American athletes. "If only the Russians had waited a day or two to announce their decision," said one Pole, "we would have been on our way."

The announcement came only hours before the Polish delegation was to leave for the United States.

Ralph Boston, veteran Olympian and holder of the world record in the broad jump, called the Polish cancellation unfortunate. "There always had been good relations between the athletes," Boston said.

The Americans lost to the Russian men 118-112 at Kiev last summer after winning six of the previous seven meets. At Warsaw last year, the Americans beat the Poles 118-93.

MIAMI (AP) — County grand jury investigators raided two bolita (numbers racket) houses recently, arrested three persons — and got a ticket for illegal parking.

"Infuriating," said one of the crime-fighters. "Here we were in this place arresting these people and this policeman is outside writing us a ticket."

"We argued, but he just kept on writing."

News of World in Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Australia's Prime Minister Harold Holt returns Wednesday for a second round of talks with President Johnson at the White House.

Holt will stop in Washington en route home after talks in London with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson. By doing so, he is following a practice established long ago by Sir Robert Menzies, Holt's predecessor who retired last year.

After a late afternoon visit with Johnson, Holt will board the presidential yacht with other guests for a dinner cruise on the Potomac. A luncheon will follow on Thursday before Holt takes off for home.

Sources said the meetings here are designed to show Johnson's appreciation for the firm stand Australia has taken to support the U.S. role in Viet Nam.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has approved President Johnson's nomination of William S. Gaud to head the Agency for International Development. Gaud will replace outgoing David E. Bell at the end of the month.

Gaud, a graduate of Yale and its law school, has been Bell's deputy since 1964.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed and sent to the House an amendment to the clean-air bill that would authorize $196 million for three years to combat air pollution.

The measure, approved by 80-0 vote Tuesday, calls for appropriations of $46 million of the first fiscal year, $70 million the next year and a final $80 million.

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's government held firm control of Uttar Pradesh State today after police crushed a leftist-led attempt to start a general strike. There were only scattered work stoppages.

The official death toll was five, but unofficial accounts said eight persons were killed at Banda when police opened fire on a mob of about 1,000 that attacked them.

CAIRO (AP) — The United Arab Republic now ranks sixth in the world in missile production and has produced a new kind of missile which cannot be detected by radar, the newspaper Al Akhbar said today. It gave no details.

Reporting on a tour of a secret Egyptian rocket factory, Al Akhbar quoted technicians as saying Egyptian missiles now equaled those made by the United States and the Soviet Union.

After only four years in the field, Egypt now ranks behind America, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and Japan in volume of missile production, the experts said.

TOKYO (AP) — The Hiroshima City Assembly decided Tuesday to preserve the skeleton of the dome that survived the atomic bomb dropped on the city on Aug. 5, 1945.

The decision ended a long argument over whether the rickety, weatherbeaten structure should be removed and replaced with another monument to commemorate the destruction caused by the world's first atomic attack.

The dome was all that remained of the city's Industrial Promotion Hall after the blast that leveled Hiroshima.

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Nationalist China and Malawi established diplomatic relations today, putting Chiang Kai-shek's government one up on Red China in Africa.

Previously 15 African countries recognized the Nationalist government and 15 recognized the Communists. Now it's 16-15.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Three years ago Frank Burroughs was a 79-year-old high school dropout.

Today he's a geography student at the University of Michigan. "It's been bothering me ever since 1905 that I was a dropout," he says, smiling, "so I decided it still wasn't too late."

Burroughs, a salesman for 41 years, got his diploma from Wyoming Park High School in 1963, a year after he retired.

"My wife and the (four) kids kept telling me for years to go back to school, so when I got my high school diploma I figured I might as well keep on going," he says.

Burroughs, a widower, lives with his daughter, Margaret, an assistant high school principal.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Vonda Kay Van Dyke, Miss America of 1965, will marry Dr. C. Andrew Laird of Los Angeles in an evening ceremony July 23 in the Phoenix Central Methodist Church.

Laird is a resident physician in surgery at the UCLA Medical Center. Miss Van Dyke, 23, is a senior at UCLA.

FENIT, Ireland (AP) — William Verity of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., has landed in Ireland after a 68-day voyage across the Atlantic in a 12-foot sloop.

Verity arrived Tuesday in the County Kerry Harbor of Fenit with enough food and water to last another 10 days.

Verity said he made the trip to show it was possible that explorers before Columbus crossed the Atlantic in small craft.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Rev. Billy Graham, home after a month-long crusade in Britain, says there are "tens of thousands of deeply religious young people" in Great Britain.

Even the long hair and short skirts among the young are "evidence of a spiritual search," Graham said, "a search for something to believe in, to commit themselves to, to trust in."

WORLD'S LARGEST DESALTING PLANT PLANNED — A ground-breaking ceremony in Key West, Fla., marked the start of construction of the world's largest, single-unit desalting plant, shown in an artist's drawing. Being built by Westinghouse, the plant will have a capacity of 2,620,000 gallons a day and will supply fresh water to Key West in 8 months.

Rural Power Firm Trustees Approve Plans for Merger

An agreement to merge the plant and service facilities of the South Central Power Co. and Inter-County Rural Electric of Hillsboro was reached Tuesday night by trustees of the two firms.

The agreement will be subject to approval by consumer members. The merger, when affected, would make the resulting cooperative the largest in Ohio and place it among the 10 biggest in the nation.

John Eakin and Charles Wyckoff, board presidents of South Central and Inter-County respectively, expressed elation with the merger plan. Both denoted rate reductions that would result, plus the potential for improved service.

Both firms are rural electric cooperatives with 30 years of operation. According to spokesmen, the merged cooperative would continue to offer its member-consumers the same type management and the same voting privileges at annual meetings.

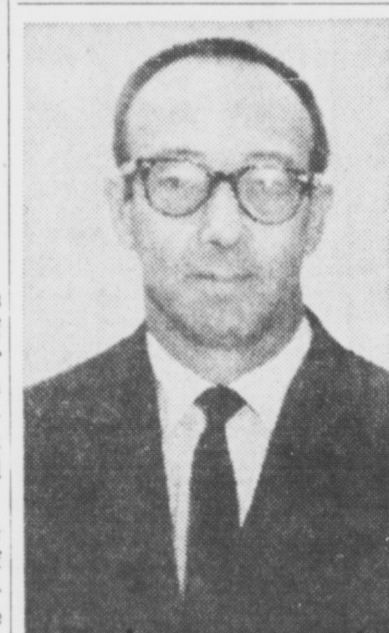

EAKIN termed the merger a strengthening step for the rural electrification movement in Ohio. "By merging these two cooperatives we create an even stronger entity — a cooperative that will be able to reduce rates immediately and provide more than 3,000 man-years experience to serve members," he said.

Darwin Kindler, general manager of South Central, outlined basic benefits that Inter-County member-owners would receive as soon as the merger became effective. "First of all," he said, "Inter-County members would receive a substantial rate reduction."

"South Central presently serves over 21,000 consumers, about three times as many as Inter-County. This larger ownership has permitted us to move more rapidly into cost-cutting areas such as electronic data processing, for instance. In turn, this means that we can reduce our operating costs and thus reduce rates. So our rate structure is approximately 15 per cent lower than that of Inter-County. Inter-County members would start paying the lower rates as soon as the merger is completed."

KINDLER also noted that membership fees would be refunded to Inter-County consumers, a practice initiated by South Central several years ago. He said present estimates indicate more than $66,000

VICTOR ROGERS

Rogers Gets Assignment At Richmond

Victor Rogers, a supervisor in the works engineering section at Du Pont's Circleville plant, has been transferred to the company's textile fibers installation in Richmond, Va.

Rogers has worked for Du Pont since 1951 when he started as an expediter in the construction division of the Engineer Department in Wilmington, Del. He was assigned to the Circleville plant in 1956.

This will mark Rogers' second tenure at the Richmond plant. He served there in 1953-56 as a design engineer. Additional posts held include manufacturing foreman and specialist and group leader in works engineering.

Rogers is a graduate of Virginia Polytechnical Institute, where he earned a bachelor degree in civil engineering. He is a veteran of World War II, serving 4½ years in the European Theater. He is a vestryman at St. Philip's Church here.

He and his wife, Margaret, live at 558 N. Pickaway St. They have two daughters, Martha and Jane.

would be returned to Inter-County members.

Charles W. Hill, Inter-County manager, said all present employees would be retained in the proposed setup. He said all current facilities, including the headquarters at Hillsboro and the service centers at Chillicothe and Idaho would continue to operate.

Hill said plans also call for the establishment of convenient locations through the service areas where power bills can be paid.

The service areas of the two cooperatives now intermingle and abut in the Ross and Pickaway County areas. When merged, the total number of consumers served by the new cooperative would be just under 30,000.

Spokesmen said the combined service fleets of both cooperative will provide one of the largest and most competent field forces in the state. An immediate boost to the service facilities of Inter-County will be the addition of a 7500 KV mobile substation, mounted on a flat bed trailer, that can be moved to any part of the service area in an emergency or repair situation.

Approximately five thousand miles of line will be required to serve the new cooperative's members — a consumer density of 5.35 per mile — slightly less than the 6.61 figure now being served by South Central, slightly more than the 4.19 served by Inter-County.

In 1965 the two cooperatives sold 243,305,539 kilowatt hours of electric energy to consumers. Officials of both predict that the merged cooperatives member-consumers would far exceed that amount in the first year of operation.

News of World in Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Australia's Prime Minister Harold Holt returns Wednesday for a second round of talks with President Johnson at the White House.

Holt will stop in Washington en route home after talks in London with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson. By doing so, he is following a practice established long ago by Sir Robert Menzies, Holt's predecessor who retired last year.

After a late afternoon visit with Johnson, Holt will board the presidential yacht with other guests for a dinner cruise on the Potomac. A luncheon will follow on Thursday before Holt takes off for home.

Sources said the meetings here are designed to show Johnson's appreciation for the firm stand Australia has taken to support the U.S. role in Vietnam.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has approved President Johnson's nomination of William S. Gaud to head the Agency for International Development. Gaud will replace outgoing David E. Bell at the end of the month.

Gaud, a graduate of Yale and its law school, has been Bell's deputy since 1964.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed and sent to the House an amendment to the clean-air bill that would authorize $196 million for three years to combat air pollution.

The measure, approved by 80-0 vote Tuesday, calls for appropriations of $46 million of the first fiscal year, $70 million the next year and a final $80 million.

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's government held firm control of Uttar Pradesh State today after police crushed a leftist-led attempt to start a general strike. There were only scattered work stoppages.

The official death toll was five, but unofficial accounts said eight persons were killed at Banda when police opened fire.

eral suburbs of Detroit. Minor flooding was reported in Detroit and Ann Arbor. Winds of more than 50 m.p.h. raked Pontiac and Flint.

Storms pounded Gainesville and Savannah Beach, Ga., toppling power lines and trees, smashing autos and causing thousands of dollars property damage. There were no injuries. Winds were clocked at 50 m.p.h. in the hail and rain storm which swept Savannah Beach. Temperatures in Gainesville dropped 25 degrees in eight minutes but the mercury soared back to sweltering highs after the storm.

Rain and hail pelted areas between Sidney and North Platte in central-west Nebraska. In eastern Nebraska light rain fell, dropping temperatures from the 90s to 80.

In Florida a thunderstorm dropped hail on Bradenton and spawned a funnel cloud as it moved eastward across Manatee County.

A hailstorm swept an area about 45 miles northeast of Albany, N.Y., on the Vermont line. The mercury reached 98 at Albany, a record high for July 12.

Arkansas suffered another day of searing heat, including 104 at Pine Bluff and Little Rock. It was the fourth straight day of 100-plus reading at Little Rock.

Violent winds accompanied some thunderstorms that spread across northeastern Indiana Tuesday night. One man was killed by bricks falling from a chimney struck by lightning in Mishawaka. Two house trailers were toppled and four others were knocked from the foundations near Decatur.

Storms, with high winds and heavy rain struck across New England, knocking out power and telephone connections and downing trees. Hardest hit appeared to be the western and central sections of Vermont. Heavy rain hit Boston during the evening rush hour, dropping temperatures from the 90s to 70.

on a mob of about 1,000 that attacked them.

CAIRO (AP) — The United Arab Republic now ranks sixth in the world in missile production and has produced a new kind of missile which cannot be detected by radar, the newspaper Al Akhbar said today. It gave no details.

Reporting on a tour of a secret Egyptian rocket factory, Al Akhbar quoted technicians as saying Egyptian missiles now equaled those made by the United States and the Soviet Union.

After only four years in the field, Egypt now ranks behind America, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and Japan in volume of missile production, the experts said.

TOKYO (AP) — The Hiroshima City Assembly decided Tuesday to preserve the skeleton of the dome that survived the atomic bomb dropped on the city on Aug. 5, 1945.

The decision ended a long argument over whether the rickety, weatherbeaten structure should be removed and replaced with another monument to commemorate the destruction caused by the world's first atomic attack.

The dome was all that remained of the city's Industrial Promotion Hall after the blast that leveled Hiroshima.

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Nationalist China and Malawi established diplomatic relations today, putting Chiang Kai-shek's government one up on Red China in Africa.

Previously 15 African countries recognized the Nationalist government and 15 recognized the Communists. Now it's 16-15.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Three years ago Frank Burroughs was a 79-year-old high school dropout.

Today he's a geography student at the University of Michigan.

"It's been bothering me ever since 1905 that I was a dropout," he says, smiling. "So I decided it still wasn't too late."

Burroughs, a salesman for 41 years, got his diploma from Wyoming Park High School in 1963, a year after he retired.

"My wife and the (four) kids kept telling me for years to go back to school, so when I got my high school diploma I figured I might as well keep on going," he says.

Burroughs, a widower, lives with his daughter, Margaret, an assistant high school principal.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Vonda Kay Van Dyke, Miss America of 1965, will marry Dr. C. Andrew Laird of Los Angeles in an evening ceremony July 23 in the Phoenix Central Methodist Church.

Laird is a resident physician in surgery at the UCLA Medical Center. Miss Van Dyke, 23, is a senior at UCLA.

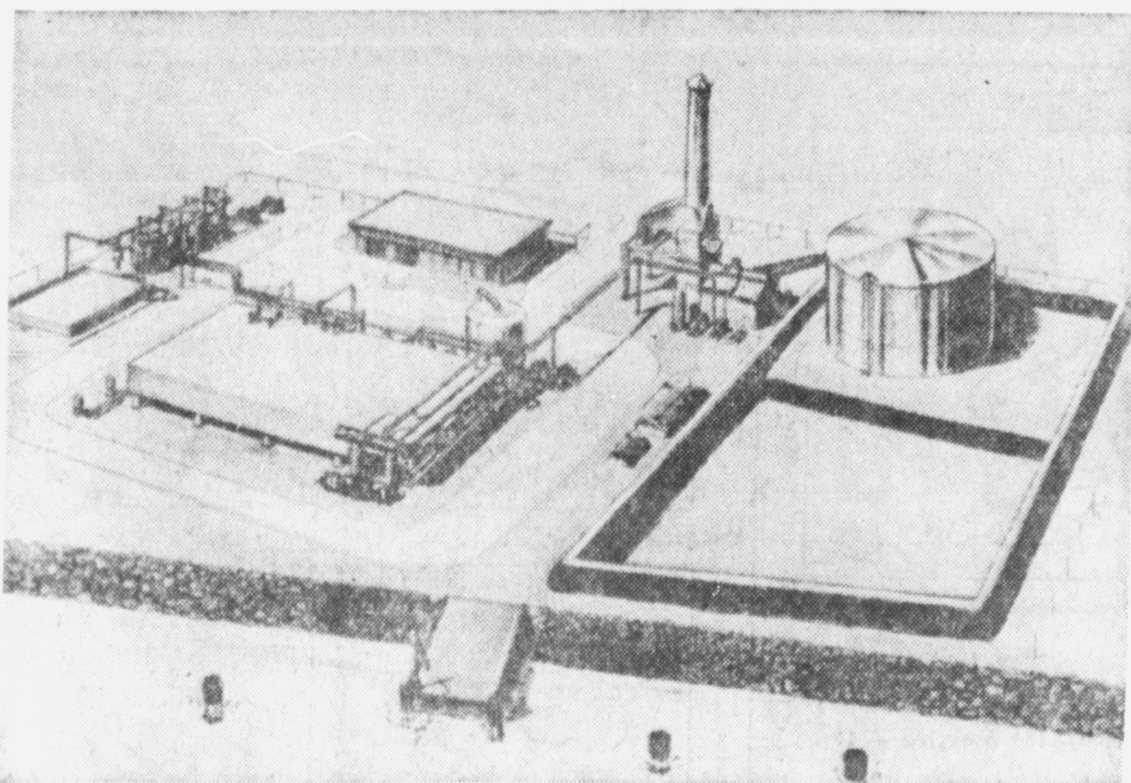

FENIT, Ireland (AP) — William Verity of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., has landed in Ireland after a 68-day voyage across the Atlantic in a 12-foot sloop.

Verity arrived Tuesday in the County Kerry Harbor of Fenit with enough food and water to last another 10 days.

Verity said he made the trip to show it was possible that explorers before Columbus crossed the Atlantic in small craft.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Rev. Billy Graham, home after a month-long crusade in Britain, says there are "tens of thousands of deeply religious young people" in Great Britain.

Even the long hair and short skirts among the young are "evidence of a spiritual search," Graham said. "A search for something to believe in, to commit themselves to, to trust in."
